Capital punishment again on slate

High court term opens

WASHINGTON (AP) — The future of capital punishment is a major question that the Supreme Court may decide

during its 1975-76 term beginning today. Another question is the role that Justice William O. Douglas, crippled last Dec. 31 by a stroke, will play in the deliberations of the nation's highest court.

Douglas, 76, the senior member of the court, was hospitalized for much of last term after his stroke. In the ensuing months, he wrote the court's main opinion in two cases, filed brief dissenting opinions in 20 cases and heard arguments on four days.

At a news conference at the court March 20, and again at a meeting with reporters in Yakima, Wash., Sept. 11, Douglas said he has given no thought to retiring.

The court will formally convene next Monday, the traditional first Monday in October, but in an unprecedented move the justices are meeting for a week in advance of that date to screen cases.

The change in procedure was prompted by the increasing number of cases being appealed.

Approximately 750 appeals and petitions for review have been filed with the court since it adjourned for the summer on June 30. The court will winnow these and other cases at this week's conference and at weekly one-day conferences throughout the term. The court accepts for argument and decision less than 5 per cent of cases presented to it.

In the past, the weeklong conference has been held after formalities on the legally prescribed opening day. This year, the justices will start hearing arguments immediately when they mount the bench.

Other cases to be considered by the court include a challenge to federal campaign spending limits, continued controversy over school busing and President Ford's appeal for the power to impose license fees on oil imports.

The constitutionality of the death penalty is questioned in a North Carolina case which the court heard arguments on last April but which it failed to decide. The case will be reargued this term, but no date has been set.

The court has been asked to review at least 31 other death sentences from North Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana and Texas.

The justices last ruled on the death penalty in 1972 when they held by a 5-4 vote that existing laws were unconstitutional because they gave too free a hand to judges and juries. Thirtyfour states have passed new laws since then and more than 330 men and women are on death row. The last execution in the country was in 1967.

RENOVATION SCHEDULED — The old fountain in the Washington Cemetery is scheduled for renovation. Mac S. Dews Sr., 2 Royal Court, is heading a drive to obtain contributions for the refurbishing project which he estimates will cost approximately $1,800. The fountain, which is no longer in working condition, will be cleaned to remove all loose paint, receive a new coat of paint, and all shubbery surrounding the structure will be trimmed. It has been 18 years since the last renovation on the fountain. The project is scheduled next spring and persons interested in contributing should contact Dews.

Congress, unions come under fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress and the postal unions are standing in the way of a more efficient Postal Service, Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar argues.

"For one reason or another, the Congress won't approve of this possibility for saving and the unions won't approve of that one," Bailar said in an interview. "But if we eliminate all the possibilities for saving that would have some distaste for someone, then we're not going to save money anywhere," he said.

Among plans that have aroused opposition on Capitol Hill or among the unions are proposals to eliminate 12,000 rural post offices and to increase the efficiency of delivery routes.

Bailar said these two proposals and others would cut postal costs without hurting service.

"I think our responsibility as public officials would require us to move ahead on reducing costs where it can be done without reducing service. And I plan to do just that," the postmaster general said.

A number of House members at hearings last week expressed opposition to a General Accounting Office recommendation that 12,000 rural post offices be closed. The GAO and the Postal Service say the closing would save $100 million per year without hurting service.

"We ought to do what we can to hold postal rates down, and insisting that the post offices be kept open isn't doing much to hold those costs down," Bailar said.

So far the Postal Service has been moving slowly on closing rural post offices "because we are well aware of the congressional concern," he said.

The proposed changes in delivery routes, known as the Kokomo plan, involve computer studies of individual mail routes and the subsequent redesign of the routes according to the measurements of the number of letters delivered and the miles walked.

The plan has drawn a strike threat from the letter carriers.

When Bailar announced earlier this month that the Postal Service had decided to implement the plan, the National Association of Letter Carriers immediately asked for arbitration of the issue.

The Postal Service is forbidden to proceed with the route changes while the arbitration continues. Meanwhile, the union has voted to strike if the Kokomo plan is put into effect.

Another efficiency move planned by the Postal Service is to increase reassignments of employees from one office to another and from one craft to another. Bailar expressed the hope that "this is the type of program the unions will understand."

Patty asked to join SLA?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Patricia Hearst asked permission to join the Symbionese Liberation Army seven weeks after she was kidnapped and took part in a bank robbery "to prove herself to the SLA," Rolling Stone magazine says in its new issue.

An article appearing in today's Washington Star said the Rolling Stone article depicting Miss Hearst's life while with the SLA gives no firm indication of the sources of its information and that the data came from "three persons who helped the fugitives remain underground."

According to the Star's account, the magazine also reported that:

—Miss Hearst was confined, apparently in a closet, for only a month. In an affidavit filed last week in federal court in San Francisco, Miss Hearst said she was held in a closet for nine weeks after being seized on Feb. 4, 1974.

—Most of the SLA members opposed having Miss Hearst join them when she asked to do so but SLA leader Donald DeFreeze, who called himself "Cinque," took her in because he wanted to use her "conversion" to prove his "power and strength."

—After her month of confinement, she was allowed out and could move "freely from one room to another" and to sit in on "the SLA's daily political study sessions."

—Sports figure Jack Scott, angered by the police shootout in Los Angeles that left six SLA fugitives dead, volunteered to help Miss Hearst and

Bill and Emily Harris and that he drove Miss Hearst from the West Coast to New York.

—According to the Rolling Stone story by Howard Kohn and David Weir, Miss Hearst said that her kidnappers were DeFreeze, Willie Wolfe and Nancy Ling Perry, all of whom later died in the Los Angeles shootout.

The magazine also said Miss Hearst asked to join the SLA after becoming disillusioned with her parents and what she deemed their attitudes about society and their wealth. She also "felt her parents were recklessly allowing the FBI to risk her life."

Miss Hearst, the Harrises, Wendy Yoshimura and Steve Soliah were all arrested in San Francisco last week.

Patty's mental state probed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst's mental state comes under increasing scrutiny today as court-appointed psychiatrists study the results of tests that her lawyer says are subjecting her to mental anguish.

Attorney Terence Hallinan said he will try again Tuesday to convince U.S. District Court Judge Oliver Carter to move Miss Hearst from her jail cell to a hospital for the rest of the psychological testing.

Hallinan said he would respond at a news conference today to "many questions which have come up and introduce the newest member of the defense team" — noted criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey.

Meanwhile, the Chicago Tribune said in today's editions that more than 30 prominent Californians have been warned by police to take security precautions because their names appeared on a list found in the apartment of William and Emily Harris.

The Harrises, Symbionese Liberation Army comrades of Miss Hearst, were arrested on the same day Miss Hearst was taken into custody at another San Francisco apartment.

The Tribune said most of the persons named in what it called the "assassination list" were executives of Pacific Gas & Electric Co. and International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning would neither confirm nor deny the existence of such a list.

The Tribune said a detailed report on Charles de Brettville, chairman of the Bank of California and a director of PG&E, was also found in the Harrises' apartment. The newspaper said the report included maps of de Brettville's Woodside, Calif., home, and notes on his daily routine.

In Hartford, Conn., on Sunday, Bailey called a news conference to fire a round in what may become a duel between Browning and the defense team.

Bailey said he suspected that Browning, a former politician with roots in San Mateo County where Miss Hearst is being held, may have used his influence to get jail authorities to tape a conversation between Miss Hearst and a friend, Patricia Tobin.

Excerpts of the conversation were made public by Judge Carter. Miss Hearst was quoted as saying she did not want bail if she was going to be a prisoner in her parents' home and she described herself as a "revolutionary feminist."

Bailey said Miss Hearst "wasn't warned that any taping was going on. The fact that the U.S. attorney in the case is from the same district where the jail is located is rather suspect."

Browning said Sunday night, "I understand Mr. Bailey was quoted as saying there has been too much shooting from the hip in this case. It sounds to me as if he is continuing to shoot from the hip in that statement."

Bailey also said he believes that at Tuesday's hearing Judge Carter will issue a gag order against public statements about the case by those involved.

Three court-appointed psychiatrists and a psychologist are to deliver preliminary reports at the hearing on Miss Hearst's mental state. Based on those reports, Carter may decide whether Miss Hearst is, as her lawyers claim, too frail to be cross-examined on the contents of her controversial affidavit.

ferences between Congress and the Ford administration. The President wants to end price controls on natural gas to allow prices to rise and thus encourage further exploration for natural gas.

Many legislators maintain consumers cannot afford to pay the higher costs that would result.

Under the measure being considered, pipelines that will not have enough natural gas to serve their customers this winter would be allowed to buy gas from producing states, mainly Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma, at prices up to $1.25 per 1,000 cubic feet.

Meanwhile, the House will devote much of this week to a $111.9 billion defense spending bill. The House Appropriations Committee chopped $9 billion from the Pentagon's defense request.

Lifestyle changes hit South Vietnam

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Foreigners arriving from Saigon report that the recent currency conversion has wiped out the wealth of many in South Vietnam's middle and upper classes, causing despair and talk of moving to the countryside to farm.

"Nothing changed for the poor," one of the travelers said, "but among the wealthy a sense of hopelessness and resignation has finally set in."

Vietnamese distrustful of banks had millions of piasters hidden in their homes. Single persons were allowed to exchange the equivalent of $20 worth of the old government's currency at a rate of 500 old piasters for one new one. Families could exchange $132 worth. Old piasters now are worthless.

The government forbade anyone to exchange money for someone else, but the travelers said some persons got relatives and friends to make exchanges for them.

The currency reform was accompanied by other economic measures: lower fixed prices of basic commodities, nationalization of some small shops and some "voluntary" communication of land, the foreigners said. Rice, cloth, sugar, tobacco, cement and steel bars were reduced 30 to 70 per cent.

There also are increased denunciations of former wealthy, privileged persons and merchants.

"People don't talk freely any more," said one traveler. "They are afraid of being denounced. The 'bo doi' (military cadres) are encouraging the population to inform on friends, relatives or neighbors for real or imagined wrongs."

"Nobody wanted to leave Saigon after the liberation. Now, however, some realize that farming will be the way of life in the future and they are beginning to talk of going to the 'new economic areas,' (sparsely populated rural areas set aside for development)."

"Those talking of leaving want land near water. Some want to go now before the good land is taken."

Textile mills, electronic assembly plants and other factories are reported short of raw materials, causing production to lag and contributing to unemployment.

Pike says U.S. intelligence poor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drawing a quick CIA denial, the chairman of the House intelligence committee says he doubts U.S. intelligence is good enough to predict a military attack on America.

Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., said, "No way are we getting our money's worth." He spoke Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation."

As Pike's committee headed for a possible showdown with President Ford on access to secret information, the chairman also accused Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger of trying to block the committee's investigation of intelligence failures.

Pike said he and Ford were close to agreement on public disclosure of information but that he still planned to ask committee action today on taking the fight for access to information to the full House.

Pike's claim that U.S. intelligence is not good enough to warn of an impending attack drew a fast rebuttal from the Central Intelligence Agency.

Pike said, "If an attack were to be launched on America in the very near future, it is my belief that America would not know that the attack were about to be launched."

A CIA spokesman responded later that CIA Director William E. Colby "obviously disagrees with Chairman Pike's assertion that our country is open to surprise attack," adding that Colby still says U.S. intelligence is the best in the world.

Calling Kissinger a possible candidate for a contempt of Congress citation if the committee's fight for information goes that far, Pike said: "I really think it has been Secretary Kissinger who has been the one who has been trying the hardest to block the committee's investigation."

Pike said he believes the problem is not intelligence gathering but above that at the analysis and decision-making level where "it just bogs down every single time."

Landowners rip takeover plan

LEAVENWORTH, Ind. (AP) — Southern Indiana landowners opposed to governmental acquisition of land along the Blue River have joined forces.

The Blue River Landowners Association wants to keep the scenic Blue "in its present state or improve it," said chairman Richard Young, a dentist. The association of 120 landowners opposes condemnation of the land by the state or federal governments.

The association will not support any illegal act but will work to prevent the state Department of Natural Resources or the federal government from taking over any land, Davis said.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Dayton authorities continued today to try to piece together the story of last week's kidnaping of furniture executive Lester C. Eموff, whose body was found Friday in a wooded area outside the city.

Attention turned to Columbus over the weekend as police confirmed they had recovered a yellow automobile believed to have been used in the abduction last Tuesday.

The 67-year-old Eموff was last seen leaving one of the three furniture stores

Sugar production may set record

WASHINGTON (AP) — World sugar production is climbing and is expected to total a record 84 million metric tons this season, up more than 6 per cent from 1974-75 output, an Agriculture Department analyst said today.

The record production, stimulated by high prices the past year, is expected to exceed consumption by about two million tons. That would mean "some buildup" in world sugar reserves by the time the international sugar year ends next May 1, according to Leslie C. Hurt of the department's Foreign Agricultural Service.

"Despite the almost-assured record, however, no oversupply of sugar is in prospect," Hurt said in an article published by his agency. "Sugar consumption, depressed by high prices last season, has bounced back and in some cases is again on the uptrend."

Hurt said that, depending on weather this fall and winter, both cane and sugarcane production are expected to rise. All major producers, with the exception of Argentina and Brazil which were hit by damaging frosts, are expected to increase output this season.

Jamaican gunmen hold seven hostage in London storeroom

LONDON (AP) — One of three gunmen holding seven hostages in a sweltering 10-by 12-foot basement storeroom of a restaurant appears unstable and there is a risk he might use his gun if police attack, a psychiatrist listening in on their conversations said today.

The psychiatrist, who was called in by police as the siege entered its 36th hour, listened for some time at an air duct which carries conversation from the storeroom. Police, some armed and wearing bullet-proof vests, ringed the restaurant but made no move to attack. The gunmen have a shotgun and two pistols.

The gunmen invaded the restaurant, named the Spaghetti House, in the fashionable Knightsbridge section at 1:45 a.m. Sunday as nine employees were closing up. The gunmen's target was 11,000 pounds — $23,100 — the night's proceeds for the restaurant and others affiliated with it.

One of the employees shoved a bank satchel containing the money under a table, escaped and called the police. When officers surrounded the area and the gunmen realized they could not escape, they herded the other eight employees into the storeroom. Late Sunday they released one of the hostages as a sign of good faith.

All three gunmen originally were believed to be West Indians but police said today they thought two of them were West Indians and the other was a Nigerian, presumably because of their accents. All the hostages were Italians.

Italian Ambassador Roberto Ducci and Consul-General Mario Manca went to the restaurant today when the hostages asked to speak to someone in their own language. Ducci said as he left, "the hostages are in fairly good condition."

The windowless storeroom holds canned food but has only one box to sit on. Police have sent in water, coffee, cigarettes and a portable lavatory. But one police officer said, "it must be a stinking hole in there by now."

Orchestra praised

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The Cleveland Orchestra, under the direction of Lorin Maazel, won critical praise today for the technical precision it demonstrated in concert here.

The performance Friday was the third by a major orchestra in Beethoven Hall in the last two weeks and afforded local critics a chance for comparison with the New York and Israel Philharmonics.

The Bonn General-Anzeiger said in its review that the 120 Cleveland musicians "were several degrees superior to the New York and Israel Philharmonics in technical precision, razor sharp tonal articulation and orchestral artistry. This is not to say automatically that everything they performed was better in a broader musical sense than what their colleagues from Tel Aviv and New York presented."

The program included a ballet suite from Bartok's "Wonderful Mandarin," Mozart's Gminor Symphony and Brahms' Second Symphony.

he owned about 15 minutes before closing time Tuesday night. Three hours after the abduction, Eموff's son Robert received a note demanding $400,000 and a threat to dynamite the elder Eموff and his gold Cadillac if the ransom were not met. The ransom was paid by Eموff's family at noon on Wednesday, the FBI said.

Columbus homicide Sgt. James Carr said the automobile was found in Columbus Saturday night. He said no one was arrested in connection with the recovery.

Authorities have arrested three persons in the incident, but only $20 of the ransom payment has been recovered.

Carr declined to comment whether any money was found in the car, registered to Mrs. Emma Thomas. She is the mother of suspect William Leroy, 44, of Dayton.

Columbus police Detective Nicole Miller said Sunday night that the car was being held for Dayton authorities. Dayton police, the Montgomery County sheriff's department and the FBI would not comment on the car Sunday.

The yellow vehicle matches the description of a car seen by witnesses at one of Eموff's stores the night he vanished.

In addition to Leroy, Herman Lee Moore, 46, and Albert Lee Scott Jr., 41, a former employe of Eموff, are in custody charged with aggravated murder, kidnaping and extortion in connection with Eموff's death. They are being held under $500,000 bond each in Montgomery County Jail.

Scott was identified and arrested through an FBI stakeout at the location of the ransom drop, authorities said. He was allegedly carrying $20 of the ransom money and led authorities to Eموff's body about five miles south of Dayton Friday morning.

Scott led to the arrests of Moore and Leroy, authorities said.

Stock list goes lower

NEW YORK (AP) — Fears of a further rise in interest rates pushed the stock market lower in quiet trading today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 7.66 at 810.94, and losers took a 3-2 lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Treasury bill and bond market rates rose today amid concern over the potential impact on the credit markets of the government's heavy borrowing needs for October.

General Motors, the Big Board volume leader, slipped 3/4 to 52 1/2 in profit taking after last week's 2 1/2 advance.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index dipped .26 to 84.52. The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks lost .31 to 45.39.

Taft holds meetings

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr. scheduled a meeting with government, labor and business officials today in Washington to look into an attempt by a French holding company to take over the Pittsburgh-based Copperweld Corp.

"There is the possibility I will draft legislation to prevent takeovers like this," Taft said. "There are not too many laws covering situations like this," he said.

Taft said he set up the meeting with Commerce Secretary Rogers Morton to discuss the impact of foreign takeovers.

Taft said he wanted to look into an offer made by Societe Imetal for all of the stock of Copperweld, a specialty steel corporation with plants in Shelby and Warren, Ohio.

"This was a very sudden, high pressure tender offer and a district court has issued a temporary injunction against the tender," Taft said.

"We certainly want to encourage foreign investment, but we do not want takeovers that could cost American jobs. The meeting will help develop a policy for this. I have been working with several other agencies including the Securities and Exchange Commission, Treasury and Justice," Taft said.

Taft said he invited Niles, Ohio Mayor William Thorp, Warren Mayor Arthur Richard, Youngstown Mayor Jack Hunter, Phillip H. Smith, Copperweld president and the presidents of the United Steelworkers Local 2243 in Warren and Local 3057 in Shelby to attend the meeting.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Norman Lear, who revolutionized TV situation comedy with "All in the Family" in 1971, may do the same for soap opera in 1976 with a new daily series called "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman."

All three networks turned it down, he says, so he's trying to sell the half-hour show directly to stations or station groups.

Right now, he only has two episodes on tape. But they are two of the most extraordinary shows I've ever seen. They actually make television viewing fun again.

"Mary Hartman" is similar to other soaps only in that its open music is lugubrious and it is set in a mythical small town called Fernwood, Ohio. After that, soap opera tradition is cast aside.

The writing is crisp, the pace is brisk, and wild but deadpan humor is prevalent, although the humor largely stems from the casual way many people discuss tragedy these days.

It commences almost immediately as Mary Hartman (Louise Lasser), a thirtyish housewife, is in her kitchen, watching a soap opera and debating with her kid sister (Debbie Scott) whether the kitchen floor suffers from "waxy yellow buildup."

They hear sirens and Mary comments, "What are all these sirens? You'd think somebody got murdered."

Enter Loretta (Mary Kay Place), a young housewife and would-be country music star. She's out of breath. Guess what? she gasps.

"There was a mass murder on the next block?" the kid sister jokes.

Loretta is visibly disappointed: "Somebody told you."

Yes, there was a mass murder on the next block — a family of five, plus two goats and eight chickens.

Muses Mary: "What kind of madman would shoot two goats and eight chickens — and the people, the people, of course?" Enter a reporter interviewing families in the neighborhood. He can't believe his "luck" in running into the mass murder story, having originally been assigned to ask folks about an exhibitionist who'd been seen flashing about the city of Fernwood.

Amid all this is a variety of sub-plots. The second episode is equally lively. More about Norman Lear and the continuing saga of "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" tomorrow.

Opinion And Comment

'A walking target'

In the wake of the second attempt on his life, President Ford has again made the ritual statement that he will not be intimidated and intends to go on making the kind of personal appearances that place him in jeopardy. We believe he should reconsider.

Mr. Ford's personal courage is not in question. It is not so much the risk to himself that he ought to weigh, as the risk of subjecting the nation once more to the harrowing trauma of a presidential assassination. In our judgment the President should curtail his campaign activities, at least for the time being.

One important factor in reaching this conclusion is what has been called the "contagion" theory. Many social scientists feel that this applies to much deviant behavior. One streaker will spawn a months-long deluge of streakers across the country; one riot will spawn other riots. Likewise, one assassination attempt may give rise to others.

Psychiatrists have supported this view since Sara Jane Moore, only 17 days after the attack by Lynette Fromme, fired at President Ford in San Francisco. One of them is Dr. Lawrence Zelic Freedman of the University of Chicago, who was psychiatric consultant to the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence. He said he thinks "there's a contagion effect, a soft of emotional resonance," and added that in his view Mr. Ford should for a time reduce the number of public appearances he makes.

A San Diego State University political scientist, Prof. Iro K. Feieabend, touched on the same theme when asked to comment. "The idea of contagion," he said, "is broader than just assassination attempts. It usually goes to any act of violence. You have one hijacking and suddenly there's an epidemic." Another political scientist, Prof. Ted Gurr, who also worked with the commission on violence, put it trenchantly: "There's a lot of modeling behavior, or money-see, monkey-do."

Perhaps we belabor the point. We give it such emphasis because the danger is so great. The two episodes thus far involving Mr. Ford underscored the fact that the Secret Service is powerless to guarantee his security when he mingles with crowds or moves about in close proximity to them. A further point also is stressed by these events - the likelihood that other disturbed people with guns are out there. In refusing to curtail his appearances the President is, as Gurr observed, "in effect saying that he's going to be a walking target."

A WORD EDGEWISE... By John P. Roche

Results carved in granite

The special Senate election in New Hampshire last week was extremely suggestive of things to come between now and the Presidential sweepstakes in Nov., 1976. Louis Wyman, the Republican defeated by 30,000 votes by liberal Democrat John Durkin, is one of the sole surviving dinosaurs. In the 1950s, as state Attorney General, he developed into a two-bit Joe McCarthy, harassing the University for having "subversive" lecturers and generally protecting the innocent people of the Granite State from sinister forces. Indeed, there was a time when the combination of Senator Styles Bridges (a prince of yahoos), Wyman and the Manchester "Union Leader" (a paper that rivals "Pravda" for objectivity) could ignite quite a firestorm. All that now remains of this once formidable reactionary fortress is the "Union Leader" and Governor Meldrim Thomson, who recently made the funnies by attacking Gerry Ford as a liberal.

Wyman gave up his seat in the House of Representatives to run for the Senate and after his defeat in the rerun announced that "politically New Hampshire has seen the last of Lois Wyman." Although I rarely hold a grudge for more than 20 years, may I fervently pray that we have all seen the last of Louis Wyman. He was eminently expendable.

What did the election demonstrate? Well, if you believe Wyman's rhetoric, a vote for Durkin was a blow for the tyranny of trade unions, for pampering welfare loafers, for inflation, and for janitors. (Wyman kindly observed that Durkin was not fit to be a janitor - John took this a bit personally as his father had been a janitor.) Governor Thomson has not surfaced yet with his interpretation, but maybe he will give us another laugh by noting that Wyman lost because that liberal Ford supported him, driving masses of true rightwingers into the Durkin camp.

Well, enough fun - as you know, I am a good winner, but it shouldn't be overdone. The Senate election in my judgment indicated that, although Watergate is a dead issue, the Ford Administration has provided the Democrats with an even more powerful appeal: the economy and the lack of leadership. Durkin's practical triumph (however you counted the votes) over Wyman in 1974 was a Watergate freak - the odds were he wouldn't come close. This time he simply walked away; Wyman conceded at 9:30 p.m. With all respect to Governor Thomson and his rain dancers, the American people are not cheerfully waiting around for unemployment because they know it will raise the Dow-Jones.

Back in 1968 I suggested here that the odds favored Richard Nixon because there was a war on, and Republicans end wars. I also remarked that the other side of this proposition was that the populace associates the Republicans with depressions. In 1968 it seemed worth risking a depression to end a war, but in 1976 what will be the trade off? New Hampshire gives us a hint.

Take another issue: the Republican yowl about cutting back welfare and other public services. During prosperity this picks up some transitory charm, but there are 21 million Americans over age 65 and, far from being worshippers at the shrine of Arthur Burns and the incredible Alan Greenspan, they properly feel they have earned the right to medical and other public assistance programs. When told about the wonders of the free market, they may not say much - but do they vote! If memory serves, their level of participation is roughly twice that of the 18-30 group.

Increasingly over the past months I have sensed the growth of a new public attitude towards President Ford, and the New Hampshire results seem to verify it. Everyone likes Good Old Gerry. Mrs. Ford is sweet (I think the uproar about her remarks was silly; as the father of a daughter I'm sure I know what she was trying to say), and everything around the White House is hunky-dory - except that President Ford is vanishing like the Cheshire Cat. The American people don't want Good Ole Gerry in the Oval Office; they want President Gerald Ford.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 30

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Your career, ambitions and standing with your business associates are highlighted now, and your feeling of optimism will be justified by events.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Let certain situations ride. Forcing issues will do more harm than good. By demonstration, you can let others know that your ideas are practical.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Ups and downs in mood now. You'll be pessimistic about getting certain information; delighted when you do... low in spirit over unexpected changes; happy when their ultimate benefits are revealed.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

A day in which to get your house in order. Check your files, correspondence, agreements. Keep your ultimate aims and goals in mind, and refuse to be rushed by anyone.

LEO

(June 24 to Aug. 23)

You may be attracted to an individual who seems aloof, indifferent. Making a gesture of friendship could prove an important move in changing the situation.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Don't let a moody or emotional person get you down. Maintain and promote your self-esteem and stress your innately optimistic side. It may not be easy but it will be necessary.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

A good day to contact the opposition and see if you can work out a satisfactory compromise. Be realistic, though, and don't give too much just to get matters off your agenda.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

A fairly productive period, waiting for you to inject improved methods to increase potential. Use the investigative approach - but with finesse.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Do not try to do too much at once; enlist assistance where needed. Make ready for some new arrangements, maybe a complete change of plan.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

A great day! You can now outpoint, outsmart and outdo anyone. Profit by it! Occupational interests especially favored.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Some planetary restrictions now. If certain negotiations are pending, try to defer conclusion for 24 hours, when influences will be more propitious.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Keep an eye on the doings of a highly unpredictable companion. His (or her) unconventional actions could ultimately involve you - to your sorrow.

YOU BORN TODAY: The scales are your symbol; Venus, your planet - representing beauty and love. Any lack of harmony in your surroundings distresses you. You are notably lacking in aggressiveness and find it hard to make decisions since your need for weighing and balancing everything unhurriedly makes it impossible for you to take an immediate stand on any issue. This hesitancy is considered by many to be a sign of weakness on your part but, once you have made a decision, no power on earth can make you change your mind. This trait COULD prove exasperating to others at times - especially if your decision should prove unsound. Consider well! There are many fields in which you could excel, but notably in literature, the law, jurisprudence, painting and the theater.

Ohio Perspective

By ROBERT E. MILLER

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Sen. Oakley C. Collins won't take a second job as Lawrence County school superintendent for at least two more months — despite an embattled new law effective next Thursday, allowing him to do so.

Collins, R-17 Ironton, and the county school board, agreed to hold off on the effective date, ostensibly to accommodate the outgoing superintendent, but possibly for other reasons as well. They said retiring Supt. Harvey Butcher had his contract extended until December to enhance his retirement benefits.

However, Lawrence County Prosecutor Lloyd Moore, a Democrat, said he thinks they held off because of an Ohio Supreme Court challenge he plans to file "if and when Oakley takes office as school superintendent."

Moore repeated constitutional objections were voiced by some lawmakers last summer when the legislature enacted the so-called "Oakley Collins" bill, permitting him to serve in two public positions at the same time.

The bill had wide bipartisan support from Collins' friends in the legislature where his service dates back to 1947. Gov. James A. Rhodes signed it into law July 3, giving it an Oct. 2 effective date.

However, Moore said "it doesn't matter to me that they passed an unconstitutional law."

He cited Article 2, Section 4 of the Ohio Constitution which says in part that no person holding "any lucrative office under the authority of this state, shall be eligible to, or have a seat in, the General Assembly..."

Moore noted that the document goes on to say that the prohibition does not apply to "township officers, justices of the peace, notaries public, or officers of the militia."

The bill enacted by the legislature states simply that employees of county school boards may also serve in the legislature.

"Oakley says this constitutional ban doesn't apply to him, but I can read English as well as the next fellow," said the prosecutor, who has held his office since 1954.

Moore indicated he has laid some other groundwork if it turns out that Collins signs on as superintendent. He said he found an old attorney general's opinion holding that a department head of a municipality was not eligible to serve in the legislature.

Collins, at times a controversial figure in state as well as local politics, maintains that holding both positions would not be a conflict of interest, as charged by others any more than lawmakers in various private professions.

He said he would forego his superintendent's pay (about $20,000 a year) while working in Columbus. State senators earn $17,500 annually.

Twice-married woman torn by grave invitations

DEAR ABBY: My sister, Jane, was widowed after 45 years of marriage to Joe Smith. When Joe died, she bought a double plot with a big single stone with "SMITH" across it. She put his name on one side of it, plus the date of his birth and date of his death. The other side was for her when her time came.

Well, she ups and marries Chester Lind, who was never married before. Chester has expressed his wish to be buried side by side with my sister, Jane, and he has two plots to accommodate them in his family gravesite.

My sister is no longer a Smith, so how can she be buried with Joe Smith in the Smith family plot if she wanted to? How is a problem like this handled?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: It's up to your sister to make her wishes known soon. If she wants to be laid to rest beside her first husband, she should so advise her present husband. Her marker would then read, "JANE SMITH LIND." If she doesn't make her wishes known, my guess is that if she outlives Chester, she'll join the Smiths. If not, Chester will bury her with the Linds.

DEAR ABBY: I feel sorry for the Sunday school teacher who has a discipline problem with the pastor's 6-year-old son and doesn't know what to do. Being a pastor myself, I know that every Tom, Dick and Harry threaten to quit the church if they don't get their way.

I've heard everything from, "If my daughter doesn't get to play the organ," to, "if my grandfather doesn't get to preach his own funeral service, I am going to quit this church!"

When anyone tries to blackmail me in this manner, I simply get out my pen and note pad and ask them to put it in writing. And I hold them to it afterwards too!

No church needs members like those I have lost. If it weren't for the bad language, I'd tell them all to go to hell.

MISSOURI PASTOR

DEAR PASTOR: And if it weren't for your restraint, you'd be looking for a new pulpit.

DEAR ABBY: I am 22, but I look much younger. My husband is 30, but he looks older. (He's losing his hair fast.) The problem is that everybody thinks I am his daughter, and this irritates us. In fact, we almost hate to go anywhere where people don't know us because everybody makes that mistake.

Have you any suggestions on how I can look older without dressing like an old lady?

LOOKS LIKE A KID

DEAR LOOKS: The solution to your problem could be to get your husband to look YOUNGER. Has he thought of a hairpiece? That would help. In the meantime, enjoy looking "like a kid". Too soon will come the day when time, the subtle thief of youth, will change all that.

DEAR ABBY: Tell FLAT to cheer up. The slim, willowy look is in. Look at the fashion models.

At 14, I was flat, and still am at 35, but it doesn't bother me. I still have the body and muscle of a teenager, while most of my big-busted sisters are getting flabby and saggy.

In 1918, Allied forces in World War I scored a decisive breakthrough of the Hindenburg Line in Germany.

In 1923, Britain began to rule Palestine under a mandate from the League of Nations.

In 1941, in World War II, the United States and Britain agreed to send war supplies to the Soviet Union to help resistance to Nazi invaders.

In 1957, nearly 300 persons were killed when an express train hit a parked oil train in West Pakistan.

In 1963, Pope Paul opened the second session of the Roman Catholic Vatican Council.

Ten years ago: Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro said he would not stand in the way of any Cubans who wanted to migrate to the United States.

Five years ago: Thousands of Egyptians thronged the streets of Cairo to mourn President Gamal Abdel Nasser after his death.

American businesses go after petrodollars

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

DUBAI, Union of Arab Emirates (AP) — Thousands of American industrialists, military advisers and arms salesmen storm ashore in the Persian Gulf each week in a business blitzkrieg to capture petrodollars.

Already 70,000 to 80,000 Americans live and work here in Dubai and five other oil-rich nations bordering the Gulf. Many are Vietnam veterans fresh from unemployment lines.

They fly the Shah of Iran's Boeing tankers, operate his helicopter school at Isfahan, teach infantry tactics to the Saudi Arabian national guard and show Bedouin camelers how to fly fighter jets. They create whole new industrial cities and American-style suburbs out of sandy nothingness, train the pilots, stewardesses and baggage handlers for Iraq airlines, and equip and staff entire hospitals and medical schools. Among other bizarre undertakings, like providing phosphorescent safety jackets for camels crossing Abu Dhabi's new four-lane expressway, they have finished building a hotel in Mecca, Saudi Arabia, by remote control TV cameras because only true Moslem believers could visit the construction site in Islam's holiest city.

By the end of the decade, Pentagon officials predict, 150,000 Americans will be in the Gulf carrying out billions of dollars worth of arms contracts and billions more in economic projects that already have resulted in a U.S. trade surplus in the area despite the oil price increase.

"What Vietnam was to the Sixties, the Gulf has become to the Seventies," says chopper jockey Tom Forbes of Jacksonville, Fla., a Vietnam veteran teaching Iranian cadets to fly the Shah's 700 new helicopters. "It's where it's all at. The big difference here is that nobody's shooting at you. And, for a change, Uncle Sam isn't footing the bill."

Jobs are plentiful for semiskilled hard hat or skilled white coverall types.

Salaries for Americans range anywhere from $1,500 to $3,000 a month and in some cases housing and schooling allotments are made for families.

But prices are high. A small jar of peanut butter, for example, costs $5 in Iran and a coffee is $8 a pound in Kuwait.

George Roche, a welder from Gary, Ind., said he saved up 19 unemployment checks for a ticket to Tehran, Iran. "I filed 12 applications, had nine interviews and got nine job offers."

Mental health energy cuts made

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation has cut its consumption of its four major energy users for the three months ended June 30.

It said it curtailed its use of natural gas by 12.6 per cent over the same period last year while consumption of electricity was down 2.5 per cent, coal 7.9 per cent and fuel oil by 51.1 per cent.

The department said the consumption figures reflect energy used for 31 facilities in the state but not the central and district offices, except those located on institutional grounds.

Miss Wheelchair America named

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dixie Lee Etheridge, 21, of Greenville, Miss., was crowned Miss Wheelchair America 1976 Sunday night.

Miss Etheridge was selected from contestants representing 32 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico in the fourth annual pageant.

First runnerup was Mrs. Shirley R. Holmes, Carbondale, Ill., Miss Wheelchair Illinois.

Miss Wheelchair Kentucky, Wanda Rolfe, from Murray, was second runnerup followed by Janice M. Kelly of Kansas City, Mo., third runnerup and Mrs. Linda Casn of Dyer, Ind., fourth runnerup.

Italia Dito, Los Angeles, Calif., was voted Miss Congeniality. Christine Valasek of Ford City, Pa. received Miss Achievement honors.

Armstrong to retire as divisional chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Harry L. Armstrong of Logan will retire as chief of the Department of Natural Resources' oil and gas division Oct. 15 after 26 years as a public servant.

Armstrong, who turns 60 next month, has been chief of the division since March.

Several firms said they'd fly my family over, but I can't find an apartment here for under $1,000 a month with a sit down toilet." Roche plans to keep his shipyard job long enough to pay his return air fare.

The rental of a two-bedroom villa in Bahrain has tripled in price to $1,200 a month in the past year. The Tehran American School was launched in 1954 with 92 students. This fall it opens its doors to 3,000 and has plans to accommodate 5,000 students.

Congressional and other critics of U.S. arms sales in this highly volatile region fear the presence of thousands of Americans could trigger an incident that could involve the United States in a shooting war.

Industry's answer, like the Defense Department at most Washington hearings, is that the Gulf oilfields want American weapons and know-how and can afford it on an unprecedented scale that already is redeeming the U.S. recession-ridden economy. If spurned, the argument goes, they will shop elsewhere for their arms, in Britain or France, or even in the Soviet Union, losing the United States both a customer and a friend.

More than half the Americans now living in the heat and dust of the Gulf are advisers and technocrats directly involved with the $10 billion worth of U.S. arms peddled in the area since 1973, chiefly to Iran and Saudi Arabia.

Each week, sometimes three times a week, a chartered Boeing 707 leaves Fort Worth, Tex., for Iran bringing wives and children of the 1,600 Bell helicopter employees at Isfahan. Soon the fabled city of turquoise mosques, which already has a sizeable colony of Hughes electronics folk and Raytheon missile men, in addition to a Russian steel mill and a DuPont fibre plant, will be home for 1,400 Grumman aircraft employees and their families.

To house the burgeoning foreign colony, a satellite suburb is being built on the outskirts of Isfahan for 10,000 people. It is called Shahin Shahr, "City of Eagles."

It will be a typical American suburb with barbecue ovens on the lawn, motor bikes in the driveway and basketball hoops over the garage door.

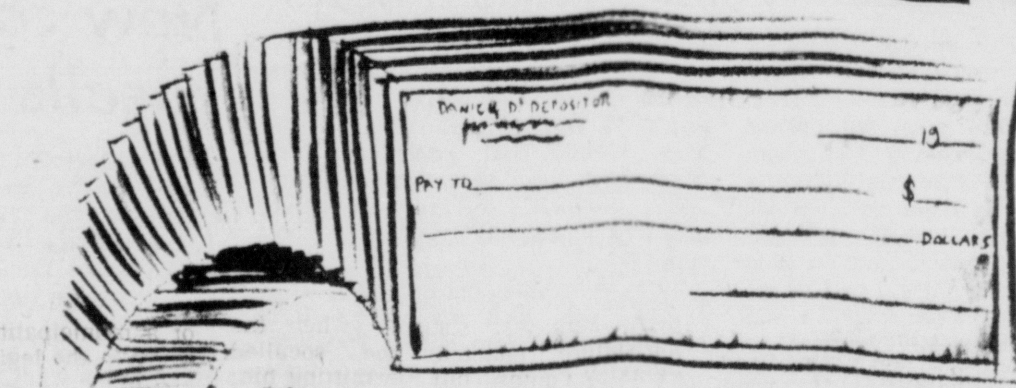

For 160 years, right up until independence was granted in 1971, British officers of the famed Trucial Oman Scouts kept the peace in the feuding emirates of the Persian Gulf with a camel cavalry and a couple of dusty squad cars. Now even the smallest, richest city-state, like Abu Dhabi with its Rapier missiles and Mirage jets, wants to be its own version of a superpower. Kuwait, with squadrons of both U.S. Skyhawks and French Mirages, is in the market for TOW antitank missiles and other sophisticated systems.

The Shah of Iran, budgeting in the billions for defense, is determined to carry out his self-appointed role of policeman of the Gulf with the most modern weapons available.

Saudia Arabia has embarked on a 143 billion, five-year development program that will require importing two million foreign workers.

"We're not mercenaries," insisted Robert Williams of Bedford, Tex., president of Bell International, on a tour of the Isfahan helicopter base. "We're here to make peace not war."

Alpha Circle WCTU organized

An open meeting of the Washington C.H., Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held in Fellowship Hall, South Side Church of Christ Friday.

Mrs. J.G. Jordan presided. The meeting was opened with singing of the hymn, "Onward Christian Women" accompanied by Mrs. Frank Creamer at the piano, who also gave the opening invocation.

The purpose of the meeting was to organize an Alpha Circle of the WCTU, involving younger women. Anyone interested may call Mrs. John Case 335-1113, or Mrs. Cloyce Copley 335-7667. The main goal in mind of the new Circle will be, "to teach the children and youth of our generation, that they in turn may teach the generations which are yet to come."

The guest speaker was Mrs. Robert Filbin of Columbus. She said that many tons of grain are used daily to manufacture of alcohol while many thousand die of starvation daily in the world. She also paid tribute to the WCTU which is 101 years old this year.

Following the meeting, refreshments of cookies and punch were served from a lace-covered table centered with an attractive arrangement of mums and daisies in a ceramic container, and a crystal punch bowl.

Plans for the October meeting will be announced later.

CHOCOLATE COCONUT POUND CAKE — New recipe for an old favorite.

Pound Cake is a favorite

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Judging from the many recipes for Pound Cake that appear in "charity" cookbooks compiled by groups all over the country, the dessert must certainly be one of America's favorites. Recently when a new recipe for the cake that deviates from the standard rule came to our attention, we tried it in our test kitchen. It's good enough to pass along to you!

CHOCOLATE COCONUT POUND CAKE

2 1/4 cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vinegar
1/4 cup milk
1 cup butter or margarine
1 1/4 cups sugar
1 1/4 teaspoon vanilla

4 eggs
4-ounce package sweet cooking chocolate, chopped medium-fine
1/4 cup flaked coconut
1/4 cup raisins, chopped fine
Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Stir vinegar into milk; set aside. Cream butter and sugar with vanilla. Beat in eggs, one at a time, until thoroughly blended. Add flour mixture alternately with milk mixture, beating after each addition just until smooth. Stir in chocolate, coconut and raisins. Pour into a 9-inch angel cake pan that has been lined on the bottom with wax paper. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — about 1 hour and 15 minutes. Place cake in pan on a wire rack for 15 minutes, then remove from pan and finish cooling on rack.

Town and Country club installs officers

Mrs. Charles Herman was hostess for the Town and Country Garden Club's September meeting.

Mrs. Dwight Duff, president, opened the meeting by reading the poem "Even Steven." She extended a welcome to the 14 members and one guest, Mrs. Donald Meredith, present.

Reports of the recent tour to Ohio Village was given by Mrs. Lee Cleland and of the husband's party held at the 1776 Heritage Inn by Mrs. Duff.

Ideas for a bus trip sponsored by the Fayette County Garden clubs were discussed and ideas will be presented at the next President's Council meeting.

Mrs. Donald Meredith installed the following officers in an impressive service, and presented bud vases containing various colors of carnations, depicting each office, to the officers: Mrs. Dwight Duff, president; Mrs. Alvin Armintrout, vice president; Mrs. John Stimpert, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Robert Browning, news reporter.

Mrs. Duff conducted a contest when prizes were won by Mrs. Alvin Armintrout and Mrs. Lewis Thomson. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Dale Thornton on October 23.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Charles Duff in serving tempting refreshments.

English Fare has its points

By TOM HOGGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Despite the shafts of criticism hurled at it from so many quarters, I like English cooking. It may be more on the substantial than epicurean side, but most of it is delicious and some dishes are superb.

What can surpass an English roast joint of beef, brought to the table ringed by pan-browned potatoes and accompanied by Yorkshire pudding? Or what is better for lunch than a veal and ham pie served cold with crisp greens? Or that wonderful English Salmon chilled and dished up with mayonnaise and cucumber salad? And how about the crisp, crackling fish and chips, which are England's answer to the hot dog, for an evening snack?

At Christmas time, the English outdo themselves with their classic fruit puddings, rolled in cloth and plumped into a big boiler to cook for several hours. When it is finally brought to the table, the pudding is usually wreathed with holly and flaming with brandy.

One of the nicest English traditions in my opinion is their high tea which provides an excuse to glut yourself with such calorie-laden delights as Devon scone served with butter, raspberry jam and thick Devonshire cream, lemon cheese tarts and those tiny tea sandwiches filled with crisp cucumbers, tomato slices or slivers of chicken breast.

Another old English custom is the country breakfast, now usually limited to Sundays or holidays. It is not just the bacon and eggs that Americans go in for with such enthusiasm. These morning meals are usually served buffet style and feature such specialties as grilled kidneys, tiny browned sausages served with grilled tomatoes, grilled mushroom caps, smoked kippers and finnan haddie poached in milk, then laced with butter.

The English boil many of their beef, lamb and mutton dishes and to my mind one of their greatest achievements is boiled beef served with carrots and egg dumplings. Here is a recipe for the venerable dish.

15 carrots peeled
1 marrow bone
1 teaspoon crumbled, dried thyme
1 parsley sprig

1 medium onion peeled
1 teaspoon salt
Egg dumplings (see below)
Place beef, 1 carrot and rest of ingredients, except dumplings, in kettle and cover with water. Bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer about three hours. One hour before meat is done, add rest of carrots. Ten minutes before end of cooking time, drop egg dumplings on top of liquid, spoon by spoon. Cover and steam 10 minutes. Serve with mustard and fresh horseradish. Serves 8 persons.

To make egg dumplings: mix 2 egg yolks, 1 tablespoon milk and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Beat in 3 tablespoons unsifted flour, and beat till light. Fold in 2 egg whites and beat till stiff.

COOKING IS FUN

PINEAPPLE FRITTERS

The batter adheres well to the fruit.

1/2 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons granulated sugar
1 egg
1/4 cup milk
1 1/2-ounce can pineapple slices (8) in unsweetened juice, well-drained
Confectioners' sugar

Stir together flour, baking powder, salt and granulated sugar. Beat egg and milk to combine; gradually beat into flour mixture, keeping smooth. Dip pineapple, a slice at a time, into batter and fry in shallow fat heated to 350 degrees, turning as necessary, until golden — 4 or 5 minutes. Drain on brown paper. Sprinkle copiously with confectioners' sugar; serve hot.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From

WILLIAM H. HARSHA Representative To Congress 6th District, Ohio

Postmaster General Benjamin Bailor's request this week that Congress double the United States Postal Service's subsidy is the latest in a series of indications that American tax dollars are helping to support a financial failure.

In earlier action, the Postal Rate Commission recommended that the price of a first class stamp be increased from 10c to 13c sometime after Christmas. Air mail rates will remain at 13c an ounce for letters and 11c for cards.

The procedure use was simple, but hardly painless. The Commission simply voted to make permanent current "temporary" prices, and the Postal Service's Board of Governors quickly agreed to the action. It will now be possible for the Postal Service to establish a new temporary rate 30 per cent above the permanent level.

Since the U.S. Postal Service became a quasi-independent corporation, the closest it has come to meeting its "break-even" mandate was a $14 million deficit recorded in 1973.

Since then things have taken a drastic turn for the worse. The deficit rose to $438 million in fiscal 1974, and topped $850 million in the fiscal year just completed.

The many financial advantages enjoyed by the near monopolistic Postal Service have failed to make it a profitable operation. Despite well over a billion dollars in direct federal subsidies to the USPS last year, it still had to borrow an additional $500 million from the Federal Treasury to cover its daily operations. It had borrowed a like amount during the previous year.

How painfully easy it is to remember that in 1971, when the Postal Service was created, it cost just 6 cents to mail a letter — and that price had been in effect for eight years. The proposed new increase will be the third since the old Post Office Department was abolished and the Postal Service was formed.

Added to the waste and obsolescence in postal operations are the problems of inflation and increased energy costs. It has been estimated that every penny-a-gallon increase in fuel prices costs the Postal Service $3.5 million. Imagine the inflationary effect that deregulation of oil prices would have on the energy costs of postal operations alone!

Rising rates and competition from more efficient private mail companies helped cause a drop in mail volume last year — the first such decrease since the Depression.

The proposed rate increase will not be enough to enable the Postal Service to break even. Predictions are that first class stamps may cost 15c in 1977 or 1978.

The problems facing the Postal Service have prompted Congressional consideration of alternatives, including a complete abolishment of the Postal Service and a return to the Post Office Department under the control of Congress.

Another course of action is contained in legislation which proposes that those portions of the Private Express Statutes which confer the monopoly status on the Postal Service be repealed. The effect of such action would be to let free enterprise competition pick up that portion of what is now the Postal Service's monopoly business, and which the Postal Service cannot handle in accordance with the customers' desires and requirements.

Despite the best efforts and efficiency of thousands of postmasters, postal clerks, and letter carriers within the Postal Service, the corporation has simply not met its mandate for financial self-sufficiency.

The American public deserves more than a steady rise in postal rates and continued requests for more tax dollars in the form of federal subsidies. Whatever the expectations may have been independence for the Postal Service has thus far failed to produce financial solvency.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Plain Dealer said in a copyrighted story today that former Ohio Adjutant Gen. Sylvester Del Corso told a federal grand jury last year that Ohio National Guardsmen were not justified in firing their weapons at Kent State University demonstrators on May 4, 1970.

Del Corso was adjutant at the time of the Kent shootings which left four students dead and nine wounded.

The Plain Dealer said it had learned the same testimony by Del Corso apparently contradicts sworn testimony by Gov. James Rhodes regarding a telephone call to former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew on the day of the shootings.

The newspaper said it obtained a copy of Del Corso's grand jury testimony. The testimony was barred from being introduced at the recent Kent State civil damages trial—a development which defense lawyers said seriously hampered their case.

The District Court jury exonerated Rhodes and 28 other defendants, including Del Corso, of liability in the shootings. Parents of the dead and wounded students had asked $46 million in damages.

In the grand jury testimony, the Plain Dealer said, Del Corso stated 16 times that the guardsmen were not justified in shooting or even aiming at the students in an antiwar rally on campus.

At the trial, Judge Don J. Young ruled that Del Corso's testimony on Feb. 26, 1974 could not be introduced because Del Corso, as a defendant, could not be forced to testify as an expert against his will.

The Plain Dealer said that in his Three persons fined by judge

Three persons were fined in cases heard by Acting Municipal Court Judge Robert Simpson Friday.

A guilty plea was entered by Patricia L. Spisak, 26, Highland, to a check fraud complaint filed by Seaway. They alleged that she had written a $60.29 check to the store on a closed account.

She was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail. The jail term and $150 of the fine were suspended provided she make restitution to Seaway for the bad check.

Two Columbus men were fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in jail on charges of consuming alcohol in a motor vehicle. Both pleaded guilty to the complaints filed by sheriff's deputies.

Judge Simpson suspended the jail term of Robert Ward Jr., and Ricky L. Bowers and also $50 of the fine pending good behavior for one year.

grand jury testimony Del Corso also said that based on reports and on pictures of the shooting scene the guardsmen were not surrounded by students or threatened when they opened fire, that none of the students was close enough to the soldiers to endanger their lives and there was no sniper fire before the shooting.

Regarding Rhodes, the Plain Dealer said the governor testified at the trial that he neither called nor talked to Agnew. However, the newspaper said Del Corso gave detailed testimony to the grand jury, telling how Rhodes initiated the call to Agnew and after completing his conversation with the vice president let Del Corso speak to him.

Del Corso said Agnew's first reaction was to question whether the shootings were racially motivated.

Farm Bureau holds annual dinner meet

Included among the 19 resolutions approved Saturday night by the Fayette County Farm Bureau was a national resolution calling for abolishment of the Environmental Protection Agency.

The presentation of resolutions and voting for local representatives were conducted following the annual dinner meeting held at the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds. The evening's guest speaker was WLW-Radio personality James Francis Patrick O'Neill.

The local chapter of the farm bureau voted overwhelmingly to support the resolution calling for the abolishment of the EPA. The group has concluded that the costs of financing EPA projects has outweighed the advantages.

New trustees were elected in three townships. They were Ed McCoy of Wayne Township, Fred Gordon of Paint Township and Richard Carson of Perry Township.

Women members selected to serve at-large were Mrs. Charles Hiser and Mrs. Dale Ritenour. Jack Waddle was chosen to serve as youth director at-large.

Richard Woods and Wayne King were elected as delegates to the 1976 Farm Bureau convention. The alternates are Martin Smith and Lamar DeMent.

O'Neill, who will visit Washington C.H. again next Saturday as an announcer at the second annual Offsides football contest, addressed the group on the meaning of the American heritage.

After a humorous review of several historical events, he turned to a more serious discussion of the significance of the nation's 200th birthday.

He urged all Americans to make an effort to read about and visit the historical sites which played roles in the Revolutionary War.

He said it was important for each citizen to focus on the real "message of 1776." He added that the bicentennial offers an excellent opportunity for Americans to become increasingly aware of the principles which formed the foundation of the United States of America.

Farm bureau president Richard Carson continued the philosophy of paying homage to those who have advanced American institutions to their present status by recognizing past presidents of the Fayette County Farm Bureau.

Commended for their past service were Charles C. McCoy, who served as president from 1918 to 1919; W.O. Beatty, 1920-23; W.R. Everhart, 1924-26; W.E. Sollars, 1927-29; A.F. Ervin, 1930-48; Howard Hopkins, 1949-50; Preston Dray, 1951-53; Harry Hiser, 1954-46; Leland Dorn, 1957-59; Robert Pero, 1960-63; Marion L. Waddle, 1964-65; Thomas Mossbarger, 1966-68; Hugh Wilson, 1969-71; Richard Davidson, 1972-73; and Wayne Hidy, 1973-74.

Fire doused

A faulty heating unit on the roof of Pizza Hut, 409 S. Elm St., started a fire at 2 a.m. Monday.

Washington C.H. firefighters were able to subdue the blaze with carbon dioxide and estimated $50 damage. The restaurant is owned by A and D Management, according to firemen.

Halftime activities set

Offsides parade plans completed

Plans have been completed for a parade and halftime activities for the second annual Washington C.H. Offsides benefit football game Saturday, Oct. 4.

Community Education program director Hank Shaffer said the parade will assemble in the vicinity of the Washington C.H. Middle School auditorium, North and Temple streets. Shaffer said all units should assemble at 6 p.m. The parade will begin at 6:30 p.m. The parade will be North Street to Court; Court Street to Main Street; Main Street to Circle Avenue and to Gardner Park Stadium.

antique cars being included in the parade lineup.

During the parade, the Huntington Bank's hot air balloon will ascend from Gardner Park Stadium at 6:30 p.m. The game will be played at 8 p.m.

Pre-game activities include music, the National Anthem played by both high school bands and the ROTC color guard.

At halftime, the Washington Senior and Miami Trace high school marching bands will perform seven minutes each, to be followed by a drawing for prizes, and the crowning of a "Miss Offsides."

Serving on the parade and halftime committee were Karen Gerker, Mrs. Cinda Stinson, Mrs. Nancy Ward and Edwin M. Nestor.

Pipe bomb in gasoline storage tank

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Police and fire officials late Sunday found a pipe bomb planted in an underground gasoline storage tank at a Texaco station on the north side of Columbus.

FBI agents said the bomb, which did not detonate, was apparently linked to a plot to extort $45 million from seven major oil companies.

Two men were arrested Saturday on charges of conspiracy to violate federal extortion laws in connection with threats to the Gulf Oil Co., headquartered in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Paul Douglas Methven, 32, of Virginia Beach, Va., and Larry Shaffer, 34, of Chicago, reportedly told the FBI they had planted a bomb inside a Columbus service station.

Police and fire officials cordoned off the intersection and evacuated a 300-foot area including 10 homes while the gas tanks were drained and filled with water, police said. Residents were permitted to return to their homes after the tanks were drained.

Members of the fire department's bomb squad were lowered into the tank and recovered the bomb. FBI agents said the device was identical to those removed from tanks at three service stations in Pittsburgh early Sunday.

It was the second time in three days that officials had hunted for a bomb at the Texaco station. Police Lt. Jack R. Cole said the FBI received a tip Thursday that a pipe bomb was inside the tanks. After a four-hour search by bomb squadmen with magnets, the investigation was called off and the station reopened.

See standoff in teacher strike

NORTH VERNON, Ind. (AP) — Today's classes for Jennings County high school and junior high school students were cancelled Sunday in what one striking teacher called a "Mexican standoff."

Elementary classes were scheduled to be taught by nonstriking teachers and substitutes.

Teacher Ann Sutton said the three-day strike would continue until a settlement is reached with the school board. The teachers are "still available around the clock to meet with the school board," she said.

Meanwhile, school officials said they weren't interested in talking with the teachers until the strike is ended.

Board approves names for campus buildings

WILMINGTON — The Southern State College board of trustees unanimously approved a slate of names for the college's north campus facilities at its regular monthly meeting. Board chairman Edwin Reffett of Brown County presided at the meeting held at the home of Dr. Lewis C. Miller, Southern State College president, in Wilmington.

The approved names for college buildings are:

— Revere Place, the president's family residence also housing the president's office and the business manager's office;

— Hancock Hall, offices of the north campus dean, the director of technical and adult education and the admissions staff;

— Franklin Learning Center, the north campus library, comprehensive learning center and the public information office;

— Jefferson Hall, the future site of many north campus administrative offices, classrooms, and technology laboratories;

— Patrick Henry Training Center, the truck driver education building; and

— Adams Storage Center, housing for the college's heavy equipment and machinery.

The building names had been suggested by college personnel.

Dr. Miller reported that meetings with Chatfield College representatives have been scheduled to discuss possibilities for developing informal cooperative agreements between Chatfield and Southern State College. Southern State presently has a cooperative arrangement with Wilmington College, under which north campus students attend liberal arts classes on the Wilmington campus. In return, Wilmington students may take certain technical education courses at Southern State College.

The college has submitted a request totaling $95,000 to the Ohio Board of Regents for equipment and renovation on the north campus. The funds will come from the $1 million allocation made available to Southern State College through House Bill No. 687. Dr. Miller said that approval is expected in time to cover expenditures made by Sept. 30.

In other action, the board approved the employment of 20 part-time and full-time faculty members for the north and south campuses. Board members plan to schedule a meeting with all faculty members of Southern State early in the fall quarter.

Present at the meeting were board members Dr. John Bryant, Clinton County; Richard Kimmey, Fayette County; Phillip McConn, Brown County; Hugh Rea, Fayette County; Francis Henderson, Adams County; Herman Rosselot, Highland County; Ralph Phillips, Highland County; Reffett, Dr. Miller and Dr. Maurice C. Hartle, Southern State director of administrative services.

The appointment of a ninth Southern State College trustee to replace Dale Stokes of Wilmington will be announced soon. Stokes resigned from the board of trustees to assume chairmanship of the agriculture department at Southern State College.

Executions stir hassle in Spain

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Thousands of workers in Spain's northern Basque provinces began a 48-hour strike today to protest the execution of two Basque nationalists and three other terrorists convicted of killing policemen.

The death sentences, carried out at dawn Saturday despite appeals for mercy from leaders around the world, touched off violent demonstrations in Western Europe and prompted 12 nations to recall their ambassadors to Spain as a sign of displeasure with the regime of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The Spanish government in turn began recalling its envoys from European capitals.

Reaction in Spain spread immediately through the Basque provinces of Alava, Guipuzcoa and Vizcaya. An estimated 30,000 persons stopped work Saturday when they learned of the executions. On Sunday civil guardsmen opened fire on a crowd of 2,000 persons in Algorta, a guerrilla stronghold on the northern coast, as the crowd poured through the streets shouting "Murderers, we will avenge our dead!" Six persons were reported wounded and scores were arrested.

Riot police in Madrid dispersed 1,500 young demonstrators who attempted Sunday to turn a mass into a requiem service for the five. Several persons were detained, but there was no violence.

From Scandinavia to Greece, thousands demonstrated against the Franco regime and the 82-year-old dictator's refusal to commute the death sentences of the five as he had those of six other convicted police killers Friday night.

In the northern Portuguese city of Oporto, police and soldiers fired into the air Sunday night in an attempt to disperse 1,000 leftists who marched on the Spanish Consulate and burned its furniture in the street. They shouted "Franco murderer" and "Death to Fascism."

The Spanish Embassy in Lisbon was sacked and burned Saturday.

Sixty policemen were injured during a riot at the Spanish Consulate in Geneva. The Spanish Embassy in The Hague was heavily damaged by fire. A bomb broke windows at the Spanish ambassador's residence in Ankara, Turkey.

The European Economic Community condemned the executions. Swedish Premier Olof Palme called the Spanish leaders "satanic murderers."

Mexican President Luis Echeverria called for Spain's expulsion from the United Nations, and his government ordered all connections between Mexico and Spain broken.

The U.S. State Department refused to comment, but Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was scheduled to continue negotiations Tuesday with Spanish Foreign Minister Pedro Cortina Mauri for a new agreement.

Appropriation request OKd by commissioners

The approval of an additional appropriation for the prosecuting attorney's office was the only business on the agenda of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday morning.

The commissioners approved a request from James A. Kiger, county prosecuting attorney, for an additional $1,500 due to the added expenses from an increased case load.

The commissioners also announced that bids for insurance for the 90 vehicle county fleet would be accepted until 11 a.m. Nov. 3. Specifications may be obtained at the commissioners' office.

The Sugar Creek joint county ditch project was approved at a meeting of commissioners from Clark, Fayette and Madison counties Thursday. Bids will be accepted on the project in the near future.

Scheduled for Monday afternoon was the first hearing on the R.C. Hunt ditch project.

Strike in Tucson leaves bad taste

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Nearly 800 police officers and firefighters have ended a six-day strike, reporting back to work with a pay raise. But Mayor Lewis Murphy called the settlement "Tucson's darkest hour" and said it was achieved by the use of scare tactics.

After a four-hour debate behind closed doors Sunday night, the city council approved on a 4-3 vote the contract ratified by the Police-

Firemen's Association.

"We feel good about the settlement," said Larry Brooks, head of the Fraternal Order of Police. And firefighter Peter Jorgensen said, "I'm just real glad it's over and I'll be getting back to work."

Although no major fires or serious police problems were reported in this city of 400,000 during the strike, Murphy said before voting against the settlement: "Police and firemen, through fear, brought the people of Tucson to their knees. This is Tucson's darkest hour."

Councilor Barbara Weymann, who also voted against the settlement, said, "This is a situation where no one wins."

Under the new contract, an immediate raise of 7.5 per cent was granted police officers ranked sergeant or higher, firefighters ranked captain or higher and civilian municipal workers in administrative posts.

Other employees received a 5 per cent increase. A cost-of-living increase of up to 8 per cent will be awarded next July, and police and firefighters will begin receiving uniform and equipment allowances and hazardous duty pay.

Rookie police officers had been earning $876 a month and rookie firefighters $834. Starting pay was $1,118 for police sergeants and $1,174 for fire captains.

The Police-Firemen's Association, which was formed Sept. 12 by the merger of the police and firefighters' unions, had asked for a 30 per cent pay hike and immediate contract negotiations.

Demand blacks be given share of building

ATLANTA (AP) — This city's black, first-term mayor has angered white politicians and delayed a major airport expansion project with his unyielding demand that black companies participate in the $400 million contract.

It's part of Mayor Maynard Jackson's demand that black-owned construction companies be included in government construction contracts. "I think the time has come to stop pussyfooting around," said Jackson.

37, first black mayor of this Southern capital city. "Either government ought to shut up talking a good game or government ought to do something about it."

To back up his demand on the airport

contract, Jackson says he is drafting an ordinance that will guarantee black businessmen a share of every city contract.

His approach appears to be more direct and forceful than that of other black mayors in major American cities.

Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley has pushed a program to make black firms aware of upcoming city contracts, and Detroit Mayor Coleman Young has insisted on a quota of minority employees for firms bidding on city work. Similar efforts have been made in Gary, Ind. by Richard Hatcher.

Jackson, however, moved swiftly and directly this year to reopen architectural and engineering contracts for the airport expansion and insisted that the contract holders recruit black-owned firms to do 20 to 25 per cent of the work.

After 11 weeks of negotiations, the existing contractor, Atlanta Airport Engineering Inc., recruited a black-owned New York firm to share in the engineering contract. And two architectural firms agreed to take in four black-owned firms on a joint venture basis.

"It's an idea whose time has come," Jackson said of the joint ventures. "It is the next logical step in the equal employment opportunity sphere."

He said that resistance to the idea comes from people who believe "rather accurately, that if this catches on and spreads nationally, blacks will achieve a level of economic power unparalleled in the history of the country.

"The irony of the resistance to the idea is that the resistance is often by people who criticize blacks for not being resourceful. Now, here's a chance for blacks not to get a giveaway."

A black voter majority and a strong relationship with a biracial city council make it possible for Jackson to make such a stubborn stand, said state Sen. Julian Bond, a Jackson supporter who briefly sought support for a presidential bid this year.

"Most black mayors do not have the same kind of good relationship with the city council that Jackson has," said Bond who is black. "Although they may want to do the same thing, political realities keep them from that. This along with the black political majority is the major reason for Jackson's strong position."

Jackson collected nearly 60 per cent of the votes two years ago to defeat incumbent Mayor Sam Massell. At that time blacks made up just slightly less than half the registered voters. Today, black voters comprise 51.4 per cent of the voters.

So far, Jackson has not taken a strong position on an annexation controversy, an issue that concerns the black political majority. While annexation of predominantly white suburban areas would increase the city's tax base, it also would dilute black voting strength.

Thrift institutions in trouble

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's thrift institutions — the savings banks and the savings and loan associations — again are worried that they are losing out in the competitive battle for the consumer's dollar.

Restricted by federal regulation to offering only 5.25 per cent on passbook savings and 7.75 per cent on six-year savings certificates, the thrifts find themselves no match for Uncle Sam's 8-plus per cent.

That's what the Treasury is offering on notes these days, and some of them are in denominations small enough to attract funds that otherwise would repose within the coffers of the thrift institutions.

The big commercial banks, say the thrifts, are in a much better position to survive, enough though the upper limit of interest rates they can offer is one-quarter point lower.

The commercial banks have other sources of income; they aren't dependent, as are the thrifts, on catching consumer savings. They derive funds and income from a broad variety of business services.

Unlike the thrifts, commercial banks aren't undermined when the money of small savers is withdrawn, attracted away by higher interest rates elsewhere. But withdrawals are devastating for the thrifts.

You might think then that the thrifts would find logical and fair the prediction by George McKinney, chief economist of Irving Trust, that federal officials soon will permit higher interest to be offered on consumer savings.

McKinney maintains that the small saver is entitled to a "reasonable" return on his savings. The present restrictions represent an inequality, an inequality that federal officials can quickly correct if they so choose.

McKinney feels certain that this will take place, if only because "things of interest to the nation generally get done." Pressure will be brought, he said. "Maybe Congress will have to act."

Well, the thrift institutions don't think it's a very good idea. They agree that if permitted to offer higher rates on savings they would attract more money. But at what cost?

Said Kenneth Thygeson, economist of the U.S. League of Savings Associations: "I just don't think the

S&Ls and mutual savings banks have the earnings capacity to pay substantially higher rates."

Thygeson points out that net income after taxes fell in 1974 to $1.482 billion from $1.896 billion a year earlier. "We did a survey, a summary, and found them down even more in the first half of 1975," he said.

The thrifts therefore seem to be caught in a vice. They can't compete unless interest rates drop. And they can't correct the situation by offering higher interest rates either, even if permitted by regulators.

Meanwhile, they fear disintermediation — a big word that means, simply, a movement of money toward higher rates. In July the savings and loans accumulated $3 billion in savings; in August, only $1.2 billion.

Water pinch hits Newark

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Water service was expected to be back to normal in Newark today, but the mayor ordered the community of 45,000 to continue conservation measures.

Mayor Richard Baker declared a state of emergency Sunday because of a water shortage caused by a main that ruptured early Saturday.

Baker said although one pump was back in operation, residents were still using more water than could be processed by the system.

Officials still had not determined what caused the break.

Neighboring Heath provided emergency service to the Licking County Memorial Hospital in Newark, but could only provide 1.5 million gallons of the city's 10 million gallon daily supply.

Tom Seaver sets sports broadcasts

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Seaver, right-handed pitching star of the New York Mets, is following a familiar path for athletes by going into television.

Seaver, who won his 22nd game as the season closed Sunday, will spend the off-season as a sports broadcaster for WCBS-TV, flagship station of the CBS television network. He begins work Oct. 11.

The station, which did not disclose Seaver's salary, said he would cover the World Series among other assignments. He will be seen only in the New York area.

Among other WCBS-TV sportscasters are Ron Swoboda, a former Met teammate of Seaver's and author and former pitcher Jim Bouton.

O.J., Bills rip Steelers, 30-21

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

O.J. Simpson tied one of Jim Brown's myriad National Football League records — and the Buffalo Bills led the Pittsburgh Steelers up in knots.

Simpson, who made a habit two years ago of piling up 200-plus-yard games en route to his 2,003-yard monster that shattered Jim Brown's single-season record of 1,863 yards, got his act together Sunday for the second straight week.

He turned the Steel Curtain defense into scrap iron, rambling for a mind-boggling 227 yards — 88 of them on a touchdown jaunt — for his fourth 200-yard game, matching a mark set by the phenomenal Brown.

And it gave him an even 400 yards in two games, a performance which — even this early in the 14-game season — has people buzzing about his possibly shattering the 2,000-yard mark again.

Simpson's stampeding through the Steelers' supposedly invincible line and Joe Ferguson's touchdown passes of seven yards to Reuben Gant and 28 yards to Bob Chandler led the Bills to a 30-21 victory over the defending Super Bowl champions.

In the rest of the NFL it was Dallas 37, St. Louis 31 in overtime; Los Angeles 23, San Francisco 14; Oakland 31, Baltimore 20; New York Jets 30, Kansas City 24; Washington 49, New York Giants 13; Miami 22, New England 14; Minnesota 42, Cleveland 10; Houston 33, San Diego 17; Cincinnati 21, New Orleans 0; Chicago 16, Philadelphia 13; and Detroit 17, Atlanta 14. Green Bay is at Denver tonight.

Simpson's big third-quarter run broke open the game, giving the Bills a 23-0 lead. They were bogged down in their own 12-yard line when he took a handoff on a third-and-one, swung to the outside and flitted down the right sideline.

Franco Harris bulled in twice from one yard out for two of the Steelers' belated touchdowns.

Cowboys 37, Cardinals 31
"It was the most exciting game I've ever been in," said Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach, whose three-yard scoring pass to Billy Joe Dupree with 7:53 gone in sudden-death overtime beat the Cards.

Middle linebacker Lee Roy Jordan intercepted St. Louis quarterback Jim Hart and returned it 38 yards to the Cardinal 37-yard line to set up the winning touchdown.

Hart pitched four touchdown passes for St. Louis, the last a 37-yarder to Mel Gray with 46 seconds to go to send the game into a fifth period.

Rams 23, 49ers 14
Tom Dempsey's 51-yard field goal, which matched a Los Angeles team distance record and, James Harris' first touchdown pass of the season — 22 yards to Lawrence McCutcheon — enabled the Rams to rally from a 14-3 halftime deficit and beat San Francisco.

Raiders 31, Colts 20
Cornerback Neal Colzie returned four Baltimore punts for 104 yards, three of them setting up scores, and ran 38 yards with a fourth-quarter interception that helped Oakland overhaul and stave off the upstart Colts.

Jets 30, Chiefs 24

John Riggins ran for 145 yards and two touchdowns and Carl Garrett tackled on 135 yards and a score in the Jets' victory over Kansas City.

Redskins 49, Giants 13

A defensive line that sacked New York quarterbacks eight times and two touchdowns strikes apiece by Billy Kilmer and Randy Johnson highlighted Washington's walloping of the Giants.

Dolphins 22, Patriots 14

Don Nottingham, promoted to the starting lineup after Larry Csonka defected to the World Football League, broke loose for 120 yards — all but 15 of them in the second half, to wake up the Dolphins, who spotted New England a 14-0 lead on a pair of Neil Graft touchdowns.

touchdowns — 52 and five yards to

Vikings 42, Browns 10

Fran Tarkenton passed for two touchdowns — 29 yards to John Gilliam and 13 yards to Chuck Foreman — and ran two yards for another score in Minnesota's mauling of the Browns.

Oilers 33, Chargers 17

Defensive lineman Curley Culp scored his first pro touchdown in eight years, running 38 yards with a Jesse Freitas fumble on the opening play of the fourth quarter to lock up the Oilers' victory over San Diego. Running backs Ronnie Coleman and Don Hardeman each rushed for more than 100 yards and scored a touchdown for Houston.

Bengals 21, Saints 0

Ken Anderson passed for three Isaac Curtis and 14 yards to Charley Joiner — in the Bengals' silencing of New Orleans. Anderson played three quarters and completed 17 of 22 passes for 203 yards.

Bears 15, Eagles 13

Rookie running back Walter Payton seemed to have killed a Chicago threat when he was nailed with a clipping penalty and then a personal foul against the Eagles. But he shrugged it off, caught three passes for 27 yards and rushed for 23 to set up Bob Thomas' game-winning 26-yard field goal with eight seconds left.

Lions 17, Falcons 14

Detroit converted fourth-down gambles on two touchdown drives and tripped the Falcons on Altie Taylor's one-yard plunge with barely a minute to play.

"I just had that feeling," Lions' Coach Rick Forzano said of his fourth-down gambling. "I'm just built that way — to take chances."

Another Oklahoma in spotlight

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

AP Sports Writer

The grumbling is starting over that powerhouse college team from Oklahoma. No, not the Oklahoma Sooners; would you believe the Oklahoma State Cowboys?

The Cowpokes, nee Oklahoma Aggies, have played second fiddle to the University of Oklahoma on the football field for so long — they trail the intrastate series 53-10-6 — that it's headline-making news when they steal the spotlight from the mighty Sooners ... as they did over the weekend.

While No. 1-ranked Oklahoma was having its hands full in a hard-earned 20-17 triumph over Miami of Florida, 17th-ranked Oklahoma State also ran its record to 3-0 by ripping North Texas State 61-7.

Hayden Fry, like most coaches, wasn't used to being crushed by the Cowboys.

"They're a great football team," a bitter Fry said. "I've been coaching for 25 years and have never seen anything like that. I really don't want to comment on it. They rubbed it in. I guess that's okay if that's what you want to do."

What especially galled Fry was OSU's running off several plays in the closing seconds without taking time to huddle after throwing two sideline passes to stop the clock. Freshman Steve Stephens eventually scored on a one-yard plunge.

Meanwhile, second-ranked Ohio State posed a serious threat to Oklahoma's lead in this week's Associated Press ratings with a 32-7 victory over North Carolina as Archie Griffin rushed for 157 yards — his 24th consecutive regular-season 100-yard game — and broke Rex Kern's school total offense record while fullback Pete Johnson scored all five touchdowns on short runs.

Punt returns of 47 and 68 yards by Larry Reece set up two touchdowns and helped third-ranked Southern California defeat Purdue 19-6. Fourth-ranked Nebraska swamped Texas Christian 56-14 as Terry Luck flipped three short touchdown passes.

Missouri, ranked fifth, rallied to beat Wisconsin 27-21 on a 66-yard pass play from Steve Pisarkiewicz to Henry Marshall, who earlier caught an 11-yard scoring toss from tailback Tony Glibreath. Earl Campbell rushed for 133 yards and two touchdowns and Marty Atkins added 114 yards to lead No. 6 Texas over Texas Tech 42-18.

Dan Devine, Notre Dame's new coach, made his debut in South Bend and gave the home folks a hint that he might be almost as brilliant as Rockne, Leahy and Parseghian. With the seventh-ranked Fighting Irish trailing

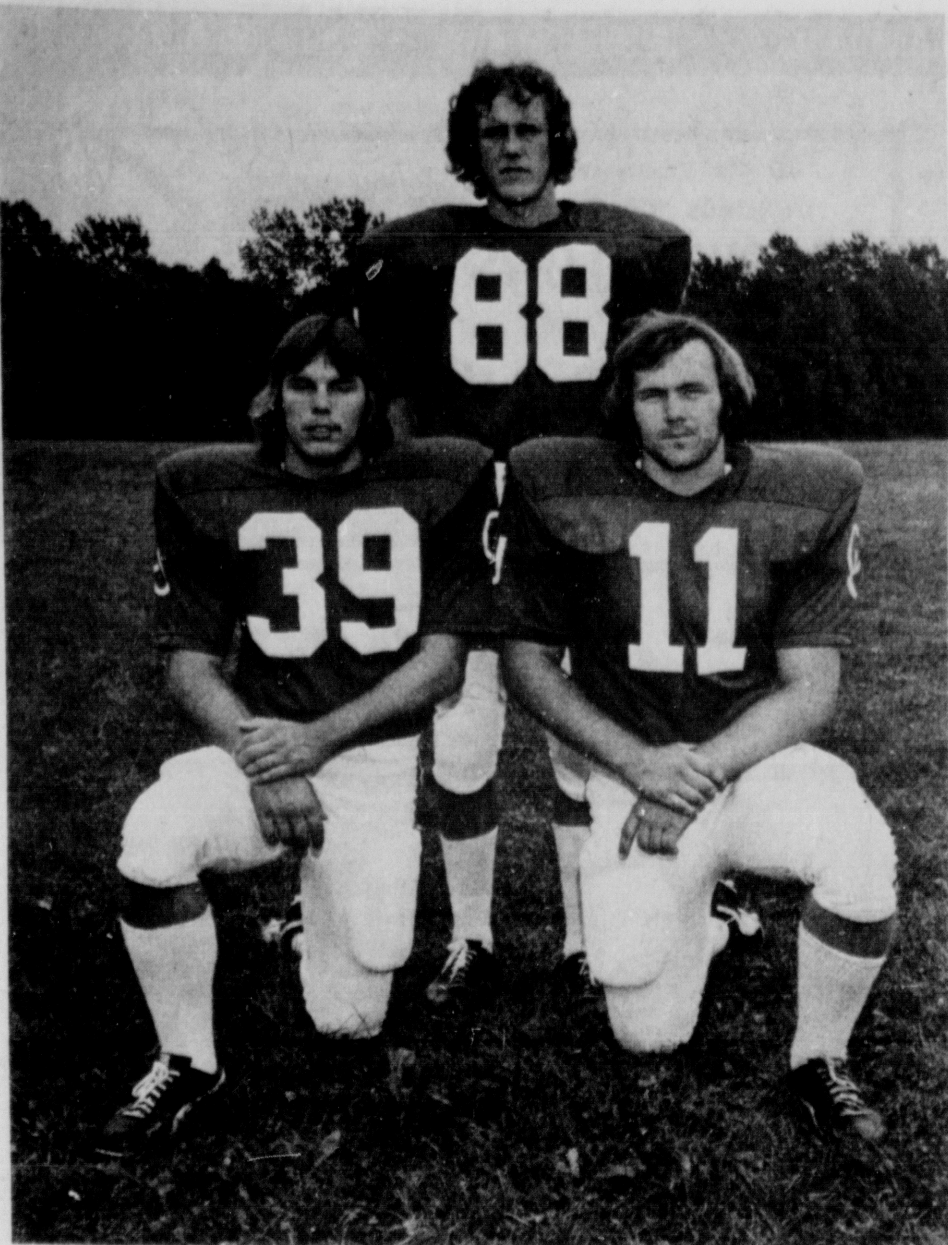

Softball tourney

Perhaps the final Softball tournament of the season will be held this weekend at Eymann Park.

Entry fee for the double-elimination tourney is $50 and the drawing will be held Thursday at 7 p.m. in the park.

The Class 'B' tournament is sponsored by Warner's Sport Shop and jackets will be awarded to the winning team and the runners-up will receive individual trophies. Team trophies will be given to the top three finishers.

Interested teams should contact Jack Warner (335-4149) or Chester Estep (335-1985) for more information.

PANTHERS TURNED CRUSADERS — Freshman Jay Mossbarger, Tom Riley and Jeff Sagar, all June graduates of Miami Trace High School, are new additions to the 1975 football squad at Capital University. All three are attracting the attention of head coach Gene Slaughter during early fall practice sessions. Sagar is presently running with the second offensive unit at wing back and Mossbarger is still running from the split end position. Riley, however, has exchanged his number '11' for a higher numeral and has been moved to offensive guard following an early test at halfback.

County reserves destroy opponents

The Miami Trace and Washington C.H. reserves teams gave their opponents little time to forget Friday's night's varsity contests by outscoring the opposition 122-0 Saturday.

The Panther reserves jumped to a 34-0 halftime lead and finished the contest with sophomores and freshmen to score a 70-0 win over an outmanned Unioto squad.

The Blue Lions held a 40-0 lead at halftime against Hillsboro and held off for a 52-0 victory.

Shane Riley scored on runs of one yard and 11 yards and tossed a 14-yard touchdown pass to Mark Smithson to lead the Panthers offense.

Neil Spears, Bill Hanners, and Dean Farris each scored touchdowns and Dennis Combs crossed the goal line twice.

The Blue Lions final score of the day came on a nine-yard pass from Kevin Bonecutter to Randy Aills.

Next week the Blue Lions travel to Unioto for a reserve contest.

Trace frosh drop contest

A 90-yard interception return with less than two minutes to play gave the Wilmington freshmen grid team an 8-0 win over Miami Trace Thursday.

The Panther freshmen were zeroing in on the end zone at the time of the game-winning touchdown.

The offensive work of backs Carl Riley and John St. Clair and Lineman Glen Cobb impressed the Trace coaches as well as the defensive work of Ronnie Dean and Doug Merritt.

The Panthers' next game is scheduled for Thursday against the Circleville freshmen at Miami Trace. Kickoff time is slated for 4:30 p.m.

Bud Grant happy in blasting Browns

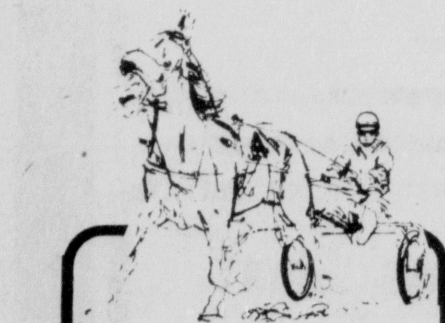

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bud Grant says his Minnesota Vikings are "old and getting younger."

The Vikings, 2-0, showed a solid combination of age and youth Sunday in a 42-10 National Football League victory over the Cleveland Browns.

"Experience is a big asset," Grant noted with an uncharacteristic grin lighting his face

Punt, Pass, Kick competition winners advance to district

Six local boys earned the right to advance to district play in the National Punt, Pass and Kick Competition. Ryan Higgins of Jeffersonville won the eight-year-old division. He was competing against seven youngsters and scored 105 points Sunday at Gardner Park Stadium. Higgins was followed by Richard Spears and Mike Wilson. Joey Knisley scored 113 points to take the nine-year-old division. He was followed by Jeff Shaw and David Perrill.

Mark Bently's 151 points gave him first place in front of Bob Smith and Craig Jones in the 10-year-old division. Jon Thomas scored 221 points to beat out Tom Clemens and Ron Ward in the 11-year-old age group. Two brothers from Greenfield won the 12 and 13-year-old divisions. Steven and Scott Grooms totaled 212 and 255 points respectively.

Brian Dodds and Steve Kingery finished second and third in the 12-year old division while Greg Bentley and Jeff Lewis placed in the oldest age category.

Over 50 boys and for the first time two girls competed in this year's event sponsored by Carroll-Halliday Ford. The district competition will be held at Gardner Park in October.

Shutouts in Pony League grid openers

The Washington C.H. Pony League opened its season Saturday night at Gardner Park with two shutouts highlighting the action.

The Big Boys ran by the Jaycees 28-0 in the opening game of the evening. Bruce Carrol and Jack Persinger led the winners with two long scoring runs apiece. Carrol opened the scoring with a 50-yard run and followed with a 57-yard run. Persinger finished up the scoring with runs of 46 yards and 41 yards. Steve Grooms and Ronald Ward scored the Big Boys' two-point conversions.

John Thomas led the Dividends to a 32-0 victory over the Marksmen. He scored on runs of one and three yards and he tossed a 27-yard scoring pass to Jeff Hughes.

Mike Strahler and Gary Gilmore also scored touchdowns in the second game on an eight-yard run and a four-yard run respectively.

Next week's games will be played Sunday afternoon instead of Saturday night due to the annual Offsides Football Game.

Reds win, look to playoffs

By BERT ROSENTHAL

AP Sports Writer

The odds will be in favor of the Cincinnati Reds but tradition will be against them when they open the best-of-five National League playoffs at home Saturday against the Pittsburgh Pirates. They don't seem too concerned about the tradition angle.

Since the playoff system began in 1969, no NL team opening at home has won the series. This year, the first two games will at Cincinnati, on Saturday and Sunday, with the last three scheduled at Pittsburgh, Oct. 79.

"I can't say if there's a jinx," Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson said Sunday after the Reds had finished the regular season with a 7-6 victory over the Atlanta Braves and were established by Las Vegas oddsmakers as 3-2 favorites against the Pirates. "It's just crazy the way it's worked out. There couldn't be any other answer."

Weather, scores highlight golf

Ideal golfing days are getting few and far between with winter approaching, but sunny skies and mild temperatures highlighted Sunday's Washington Country Club Men's Team Scramble event.

Jim Vess, Harry Townsend, Ralph Tate and Sam Parrett found their day a little sunnier by finishing with a 66 and in first place for the team scramble.

Ten foursomes competed in the event. Next Sunday at the Country Club, the Men's Roundup—Team Best-Ball Event will be held.

Other team scores were: 67— Paul Johnson, Ed Vollette, Ralph Cook and Donald Crabtree; Charles Cummings, Hayward Johnson, Roger Osborne and David Ellis.

victory — tops in the league — as the Mets held off the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4; the Chicago Cubs outslugged the Montreal Expos 9-6; the San Francisco Giants downed the San Diego Padres and 20-game winner Randy Jones 5-3, and the Houston Astros defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-2.

In Cincinnati's final competitive tuneup for the playoffs, the Reds beat Atlanta on Cesar Geronimo's run-scoring single with two out in the ninth inning. It was their 33rd one-run victory of the season and the 45th time they had come from behind to win.

Cards 6, Pirates 2

Willie Randolph, playing his first game at third base, committed three of the Pittsburgh errors and second baseman Rennie Stennett and pitcher John Candelaria were charged with two miscues apiece.

Reggie Smith homered and drove in three St. Louis runs.

The Reds finished with 108 victories — the third highest total in NL history. Only the 1906 Chicago Cubs, with 116 victories, and the 1909 Pirates, with 110, did better.

They finished 20 games ahead of runner-up Los Angeles in the NL West, the largest margin in the majors since the 1906 Cubs won the pennant, also by 20 games.

And they set a National League record with 64 home victories, only one short of the major league mark of 65, held by the 1961 New York Yankees.

While the Reds wound up with the best record, 108-54, among the four divisional winners in the majors, the Pirates finished with the worst, 92-69. Pittsburgh, the NL East winner, ended its season in humiliating fashion, committing seven errors in a 6-2 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals.

In other NL finales, New York's Tom Seaver was credited with his 22nd

Mets 5, Phillies 4

Seaver, 22-9, the winningest pitcher in the National League, was knocked out by Philadelphia in the sixth, but Skip Lockwood preserved the Mets' victory with four perfect innings of relief. Philadelphia's Dave Cash set a major league record of 699 at-bats for the season, when he went to bat four times.

Cubs 9, Expos 6

Pitcher Rick Reuschel had three hits and knocked in two runs, and Manny Trillo and Andy Thornton each had two RBI for Chicago. Teammate Bill Madlock went hitless, but won the NL batting title with a .354 average.

Giants 5, Padres 3

The Giants, with the help of two RBI apiece by Gary Matthews and Jack Clark, foiled Jones' bid for his 21st victory, but they couldn't stop him from winning the league's earned run average title.

Avoid Guesswork - See Physician

I'm always tired. I take all kinds of vitamins, but I'm always exhausted. My wife thinks I am anemic and that I should have injections of vitamin B. Do you think this would help?

Mr. L.T., Wise.

No, I don't. Anemia is not a speculative condition. It is a very exact one that can be quickly determined by your physician — without guesswork.

A simple blood study can, in a matter of minutes, show the exact number of red blood cells that circulate in your bloodstream.

It can also show the amount of hemoglobin and the presence or absence of unusual cells.

There was a time, many years ago, when anemia was a homemade fancy diagnosis that almost showed "social status." It is no longer used as a medical term without very specific reasons.

There are many other conditions that may be responsible for your fatigue, such as emotional tension, low blood pressure, low blood sugar, thyroid disturbances or obesity. Before you start a program of vitamin B injections have a complete physical examination. Then, based on the findings, treatment can be started.

After the birth of my third child I noticed stretch marks on my abdomen. Can these be helped by silicone injections? Mrs. R.R.B., Tenn.

Dear Mrs. B.: Most doctors believe that these stretch marks are considered "honor stripes."

I would be very hesitant to become involved with the use of silicone, or surgery, or abrasion techniques of the skin without absolute agreement of your doctor and a plastic surgeon.

Far too many people have been caught in the trap of "cosmetic authorities" who offer their special brand of magical treatment. Beware of the unusual.

Opening lead - four of spades.

Here is a remarkable hand played last year in the Grand Nationals by Piyush Vakil, Oakland, Calif., star. He made four hearts by playing the hand correctly — even though it seems that the contract should go down one with proper defense.

He started by ducking East's king of spades at trick one, then won the spade continuation with the ace.

Had Vakil fallen into the trap of leading a club or a trump at trick three, he would have gone down against perfectly normal defense. (Against a club lead, East would win dummy's queen with the ace, exit with a diamond, and later deny declarer a trump entry to dummy. Eventually, South would lose a spade trick to West to go down one. Against the king of hearts lead by South at trick three, East would play his seven and so prevent declarer from ever utilizing the club trick he could establish in dummy.)

Vakil avoided both traps by cashing the A-K of diamonds and playing a club at trick five. East won with the ace and returned a diamond, whereupon declarer ruffed and played a low trump to dummy's queen.

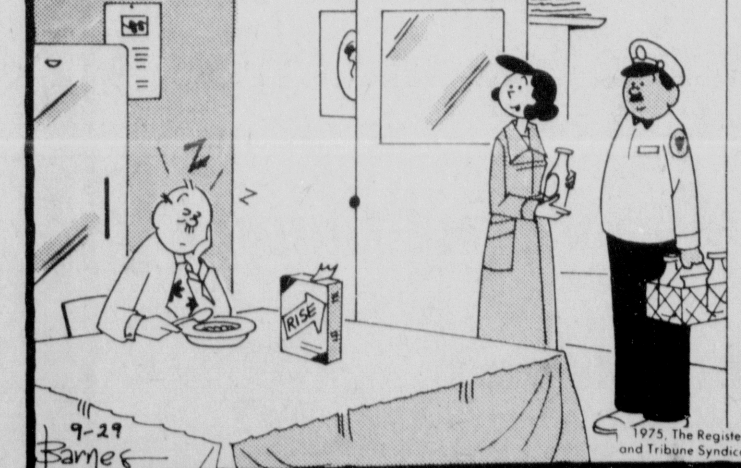

East took the ace but was stymied. A diamond return would allow declarer to discard his spade loser as he ruffed in dummy; a club return would permit South to discard a spade; and a trump return would make dummy's eight an entry and also allow South to discard his spade loser.

In effect, Vakil's method of play was designed to overcome the possibility of a 3-0 trump division — the only division that could place the contract in jeopardy. He recognized this possibility early in the play, took the necessary steps to overcome it, and fully earned the vulnerable game he scored.

Television firm to pay damages

CINCINNATI (AP)—The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that Admiral Television Co. must pay $100,000 punitive plus another $50,000 lawyers fee to a Cincinnati woman whose television set caught fire and burned her in 1964.

Mrs. Zora Gillham won damages of $125,000 but the U.S. District Court in Cincinnati later revoked the punitive damages and lawyers fees.

The circuit court said the district court had no further jurisdiction once the case was decided by a jury.

People talking to houseplants

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — It's not uncommon to find people who talk to their houseplants on a regular basis, says John A. Wott, a Purdue University horticulture professor.

Wott said that during a recent meeting of 35 amateur Hoosier horticulturists, half the group admitted to communicating with their plants.

The truth or fiction of tales surrounding plants is one of the things horticulturists at Purdue are trying to determine.

Wott says favorable results gained from people who talk to their leafy charges is probably because those persons take more notice of their plants and provide better care.

Lawmakers try to define what constitutes lobbying

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Congress grapples with proposals to impose more restrictions on lobbyists, the lawmakers are confronting the fundamental problem of defining what lobbying is.

Lobbying in Washington can involve ad hoc activist groups visiting the capital on a shoestring budget to talk with congressmen about issues such as busing, abortion or strip mining. Or it can mean the wellfinanced corps of professional persuaders, such as those deployed by the AFL-CIO and the National Association of Manufacturers.

The current lobbying law, dating back to 1946, fails to define either "lobbying" or "lobbyist." In addition, the law applies only to lobbying of the legislative branch and to persons employed for the "principal purpose" of lobbying.

The current law requires lobbyists to register with Congress and to file periodic reports about their total expenses. It does not ask for any information about who they lobbied or why.

Rep. Walter Flowers, D-Ala., chairman of a House judiciary subcommittee considering lobbying legislation, says he hopes his panel can come up with a new measure that "will hopefully be very easy to understand, very tough in enforceability and as comprehensive as we practically can make it."

At the same time, Flowers said he was concerned over possibly infringing on constitutional rights.

An American Civil Liberties Union spokesman testified that the pending bills could violate the First Amendment guarantee that "Congress shall make no law ... abridging ... the right of the people ... to petition the government for redress of grievances."

One measure introduced by Reps. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., and Thomas F. Railsback, R-Ill., with 153 cosponsors in the House, defines lobbying as "a communication or the solicitation or employment of another to make a communication with a federal officer or employee in order to influence the policymaking process."

This would cover lobbying of the executive branch, a step recommended by the General Accounting Office, the auditing arm of Congress, on the grounds that the executive branch is no less susceptible than the legislative branch to the pressure of special interests.

The Kastenmeier-Railsback bill would require lobbyists to submit regular reports detailing their finances, persons contacted and the specific legislation or policy they sought to influence.

The Air Force Museum at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base features more than 100 aircraft and major missiles, and is considered to be the largest and most complete military museum in the world.

Ohio's deserters shunned clemency

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About one ninth of Ohio's known Vietnam era draft evaders and deserters have cleared their records or are still attempting to do so, an Ohio Selective Service System official says.

About two thirds of the known personnel never even joined the clemency program, according to Lt. Michael Reynolds, staff operations officer.

Of the 333 draft evaders and deserters who came forward, 235 have dropped out of the program, Reynolds said.

Of the 98 who stayed with the work program, 75 are still working, 13 have moved to other states, jobs are being sought for four, and six have completed the work programs.

Out of 387 known draft evaders in Ohio, 16 reported to state draft headquarters, and all but one are now working at alternate service to clear the dropping of charges against them.

The 16th evader, who returned from Canada, returned there and stayed and his car has been referred to federal authorities.

Deserters completing alternate service have all charges against them dropped and their discharges are upgraded from dishonorable to neutral or clemency discharges which are neither honorable or dishonorable and carry no veterans' benefits. The cases of those who quit or are eliminated are referred to federal, civil or military authorities for possible further action, thus pass out of jurisdiction of the Ohio Selective Service System.

Reynolds says federal authorities are not expected to prosecute deserter cases, but that evaders are vulnerable to criminal prosecution if they do not complete alternate service.

Capital punishment again on slate

High court term opens

WASHINGTON (AP) — The future of capital punishment is a major question that the Supreme Court may decide

during its 1975-76 term beginning today. Another question is the role that Justice William O. Douglas, crippled last Dec. 31 by a stroke, will play in the deliberations of the nation's highest court.

Douglas, 76, the senior member of the court, was hospitalized for much of last term after his stroke. In the ensuing months, he wrote the court's main opinion in two cases, filed brief dissenting opinions in 20 cases and heard arguments on four days.

At a news conference at the court March 20, and again at a meeting with reporters in Yakima, Wash., Sept. 11, Douglas said he has given no thought to retiring.

The court will formally convene next Monday, the traditional first Monday in October, but in an unprecedented move the justices are meeting for a week in advance of that date to screen cases.

The change in procedure was prompted by the increasing number of cases being appealed.

Approximately 750 appeals and petitions for review have been filed with the court since it adjourned for the summer on June 30. The court will winnow these and other cases at this week's conference and at weekly one-day conferences throughout the term. The court accepts for argument and decision less than 5 per cent of cases presented to it.

In the past, the weeklong conference has been held after formalities on the legally prescribed opening day. This year, the justices will start hearing arguments immediately when they mount the bench.

Other cases to be considered by the court include a challenge to federal campaign spending limits, continued controversy over school busing and President Ford's appeal for the power to impose license fees on oil imports.

The constitutionality of the death penalty is questioned in a North Carolina case which the court heard arguments on last April but which it failed to decide. The case will be reargued this term, but no date has been set.

The court has been asked to review at least 31 other death sentences from North Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana and Texas.

The justices last ruled on the death penalty in 1972 when they held by a 5-4 vote that existing laws were unconstitutional because they gave too free a hand to judges and juries. Thirty-four states have passed new laws since then and more than 330 men and women are on death row. The last execution in the country was in 1967.

RENOVATION SCHEDULED — The old fountain in the Washington Cemetery is scheduled for renovation. Mac S. Dews Sr., 2 Royal Court, is heading a drive to obtain contributions for the refurbishing project which he estimates will cost approximately $1,800. The fountain, which is no longer in working condition, will be cleaned to remove all loose paint, receive a new coat of paint, and all shubbery surrounding the structure will be trimmed. It has been 18 years since the last renovation on the fountain. The project is scheduled next spring and persons interested in contributing should contact Dews.

Congress, unions come under fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress and the postal unions are standing in the way of a more efficient Postal Service, Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar argues.

"For one reason or another, the Congress won't approve of this possibility for saving and the unions won't approve of that one," Bailar said in an interview. "But if we eliminate all the possibilities for saving that would have some distaste for someone, then we're not going to save money anywhere," he said.

Among plans that have aroused opposition on Capitol Hill or among the unions are proposals to eliminate 12,000 rural post offices and to increase the efficiency of delivery routes.

Bailar said these two proposals and others would cut postal costs without hurting service.

"I think our responsibility as public officials would require us to move ahead on reducing costs where it can be done without reducing service. And I plan to do just that," the postmaster general said.

A number of House members at hearings last week expressed opposition to a General Accounting Office recommendation that 12,000 rural post offices be closed. The GAO and the Postal Service say the closing would save $100 million per year without hurting service.

"We ought to do what we can to hold postal rates down, and insisting that the post offices be kept open isn't doing much to hold those costs down," Bailar said.

So far the Postal Service has been moving slowly on closing rural post offices "because we are well aware of the congressional concern," he said.

The proposed changes in delivery routes, known as the Kokomo plan, involve computer studies of individual mail routes and the subsequent redesign of the routes according to the measurements of the number of letters delivered and the miles walked.

The plan has drawn a strike threat from the letter carriers.

When Bailar announced earlier this month that the Postal Service had decided to implement the plan, the National Association of Letter Carriers immediately asked for arbitration of the issue.

The Postal Service is forbidden to proceed with the route changes while the arbitration continues. Meanwhile, the union has voted to strike if the Kokomo plan is put into effect.

Another efficiency move planned by the Postal Service is to increase reassignments of employees from one office to another and from one craft to another. Bailar expressed the hope that "this is the type of program the unions will understand."

Patty asked to join SLA?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Patricia Hearst asked permission to join the Symbionese Liberation Army seven weeks after she was kidnapped and took part in a bank robbery "to prove herself to the SLA," Rolling Stone magazine says in its new issue.

An article appearing in today's Washington Star said the Rolling Stone article depicting Miss Hearst's life while with the SLA gives no firm indication of the sources of its information and that the data came from "three persons who helped the fugitives remain underground."

According to the Star's account, the magazine also reported that:

—Miss Hearst was confined, apparently in a closet, for only a month. In an affidavit filed last week in federal court in San Francisco, Miss Hearst said she was held in a closet for nine weeks after being seized on Feb. 4, 1974.

—Most of the SLA members opposed having Miss Hearst join them when she asked to do so but SLA leader Donald DeFreeze, who called himself "Cinque," took her in because he wanted to use her "conversion" to prove his "power and strength."

—After her month of confinement, she was allowed out and could move "freely from one room to another" and to sit in on "the SLA's daily political study sessions."

—Sports figure Jack Scott, angered by the police shootout in Los Angeles that left six SLA fugitives dead, volunteered to help Miss Hearst and

Bill and Emily Harris and that he drove Miss Hearst from the West Coast to New York.

—According to the Rolling Stone story by Howard Kohn and David Weir, Miss Hearst said that her kidnappers were DeFreeze, Willie Wolfe and Nancy Ling Perry, all of whom later died in the Los Angeles shootout.

The magazine also said Miss Hearst asked to join the SLA after becoming disillusioned with her parents and what she deemed their attitudes about society and their wealth. She also "felt her parents were recklessly allowing the FBI to risk her life."

Miss Hearst, the Harrises, Wendy Yoshimura and Steve Soliah were all arrested in San Francisco last week.

Patty's mental state probed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst's mental state comes under increasing scrutiny today as court-appointed psychiatrists study the results of tests that her lawyer says are subjecting her to mental anguish.

Attorney Terence Hallinan said he will try again Tuesday to convince U.S. District Court Judge Oliver Carter to move Miss Hearst from her jail cell to a hospital for the rest of the psychological testing.

Hallinan said he would respond at a news conference today to "many questions which have come up and introduce the newest member of the defense team" — noted criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey.

Meanwhile, the Chicago Tribune said in today's editions that more than 30 prominent Californians have been warned by police to take security precautions because their names appeared on a list found in the apartment of William and Emily Harris.

The Harrises, Symbionese Liberation Army comrades of Miss Hearst, were arrested on the same day Miss Hearst was taken into custody at another San Francisco apartment.

The Tribune said most of the persons named in what it called the "assassination list" were executives of Pacific Gas & Electric Co. and International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning would neither confirm nor deny the existence of such a list.

The Tribune said a detailed report on Charles de Brettville, chairman of the Bank of California and a director of PG&E, was also found in the Harrises' apartment. The newspaper said the report included maps of de Brettville's Woodside, Calif., home, and notes on his daily routine.

In Hartford, Conn., on Sunday, Bailey called a news conference to fire a round in what may become a duel between Browning and the defense team.

Bailey said he suspected that Browning, a former politician with roots in San Mateo County where Miss Hearst is being held, may have used his influence to get jail authorities to tape a conversation between Miss Hearst and a friend, Patricia Tobin.

Excerpts of the conversation were made public by Judge Carter. Miss Hearst was quoted as saying she did not want bail if she was going to be a prisoner in her parents' home and she described herself as a "revolutionary feminist."

Bailey said Miss Hearst "wasn't warned that any taping was going on. The fact that the U.S. attorney in the case is from the same district where the jail is located is rather suspect."

Browning said Sunday night, "I understand Mr. Bailey was quoted as saying there has been too much shooting from the hip in this case. It sounds to me as if he is continuing to shoot from the hip in that statement."

Bailey also said he believes that at Tuesday's hearing Judge Carter will issue a gag order against public statements about the case by those involved.

Three court-appointed psychiatrists and a psychologist are to deliver preliminary reports at the hearing on Miss Hearst's mental state. Based on those reports, Carter may decide whether Miss Hearst is, as her lawyers claim, too frail to be cross-examined on the contents of her controversial affidavit.

Lifestyle changes hit South Vietnam

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Foreigners arriving from Saigon report that the recent currency conversion has wiped out the wealth of many in South Vietnam's middle and upper classes, causing despair and talk of moving to the countryside to farm.

"Nothing changed for the poor," one of the travelers said, "but among the wealthy a sense of hopelessness and resignation has finally set in."

Vietnamese distrustful of banks had millions of piasters hidden in their homes. Single persons were allowed to exchange the equivalent of $20 worth of the old government's currency at a rate of 500 old piasters for one new one. Families could exchange $132 worth. Old piasters now are worthless.

The government forbade anyone to exchange money for someone else, but the travelers said some persons got relatives and friends to make exchanges for them.

The currency reform was accompanied by other economic measures: lower fixed prices of basic commodities, nationalization of some small shops and some "voluntary" communization of land, the foreigners said. Rice, cloth, sugar, tobacco, cement and steel bars were reduced 30 to 70 per cent.

There also are increased denunciations of former wealthy, privileged persons and merchants.

"People don't talk freely any more," said one traveler. "They are afraid of being denounced. The 'bo doi' (military cadres) are encouraging the population to inform on friends, relatives or neighbors for real or imagined wrongs."

"Nobody wanted to leave Saigon after the liberation. Now, however, some realize that farming will be the way of life in the future and they are beginning to talk of going to the 'new economic areas,' (sparsely populated rural areas set aside for development)."

"Those talking of leaving want land near water. Some want to go now before the good land is taken."

Textile mills, electronic assembly plants and other factories are reported short of raw materials, causing production to lag and contributing to unemployment.

Pike says U.S. intelligence poor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drawing a quick CIA denial, the chairman of the House intelligence committee says he doubts U.S. intelligence is good enough to predict a military attack on America.

Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., said, "No way are we getting our money's worth." He spoke Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation."

As Pike's committee headed for a possible showdown with President Ford on access to secret information, the chairman also accused Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger of trying to block the committee's investigation of intelligence failures.

Pike said he and Ford were close to agreement on public disclosure of information but that he still planned to ask committee action today on taking the fight for access to information to the full House.

Pike's claim that U.S. intelligence is not good enough to warn of an impending attack drew a fast rebuttal from the Central Intelligence Agency.

Pike said, "If an attack were to be launched on America in the very near future, it is my belief that America would not know that the attack were about to be launched."

A CIA spokesman responded later that CIA Director William E. Colby "obviously disagrees with Chairman Pike's assertion that our country is open to surprise attack," adding that Colby still says U.S. intelligence is the best in the world.

Calling Kissinger a possible candidate for a contempt of Congress citation if the committee's fight for information goes that far, Pike said: "I really think it has been Secretary Kissinger who has been the one who has been trying the hardest to block the committee's investigation."

Pike said he believes the problem is not intelligence gathering but above that at the analysis and decision-making level where "it just bogs down every single time."

In other congressional business scheduled this week, the Senate opens debate on a bill aimed at avoiding natural gas shortages predicted this winter in 14 Midwest and Mid-Atlantic states.

As in other areas of energy policy, the natural gas debate involves differences between Congress and the Ford administration. The President wants to end price controls on natural gas to allow prices to rise and thus encourage further exploration for natural gas.

Many legislators maintain consumers cannot afford to pay the higher costs that would result.

Under the measure being considered, pipelines that will not have enough natural gas to serve their customers this winter would be allowed to buy gas from producing states, mainly Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma, at prices up to $1.25 per 1,000 cubic feet.

Meanwhile, the House will devote much of this week to a $111.9 billion defense spending bill. The House Appropriations Committee chopped $9 billion from the Pentagon's defense request.

Also before the House is the long-standing dispute over the U.S. arms embargo against Turkey. Saying U.S. bases in Turkey could be lost for good this time, Ford is trying once again to get the House to approve a bill to permit limited U.S. arms sales to Turkey.

Taft holds meetings

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr. scheduled a meeting with government, labor and business officials today in Washington to look into an attempt by a French holding company to take over the Pittsburgh-based Copperweld Corp.

"There is the possibility I will draft legislation to prevent takeovers like this," Taft said. "There are not too many laws covering situations like this," he said.

Taft said he set up the meeting with Commerce Secretary Rogers Morton to discuss the impact of foreign takeovers.

Taft said he wanted to look into an offer made by Societe Imetal for all of the stock of Copperweld, a specialty steel corporation with plants in Shelby and Warren, Ohio.

"This was a very sudden, high pressure tender offer and a district court has issued a temporary injunction against the tender," Taft said.

"We certainly want to encourage foreign investment, but we do not want takeovers that could cost American jobs. The meeting will help develop a policy for this. I have been working with several other agencies including the Securities and Exchange Commission, Treasury and Justice," Taft said.

Taft said he invited Niles, Ohio Mayor William Thorp, Warren Mayor Arthur Richard, Youngstown Mayor Jack Hunter, Phillip H. Smith, Copperweld president and the presidents of the United Steelworkers Local 2243 in Warren and Local 3057 in Shelby to attend the meeting.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Norman Lear, who revolutionized TV situation comedy with "All in the Family" in 1971, may do the same for soap opera in 1976 with a new daily series called "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman."
All three networks turned it down, he says, so he's trying to sell the half-hour show directly to stations or station groups.
Right now, he only has two episodes on tape. But they are two of the most extraordinary shows I've ever seen. They actually make television viewing fun again.

"Mary Hartman" is similar to other soaps only in that its open music is lugubrious and it is set in a mythical small town called Fernwood, Ohio. After that, soap opera tradition is cast aside.

The writing is crisp, the pace is brisk, and wild but deadpan humor is prevalent, although the humor largely stems from the casual way many people discuss tragedy these days.

It commences almost immediately as Mary Hartman (Louise Lasser), a thirtyish housewife, is in her kitchen, watching a soap opera and debating with her kid sister (Debbie Scott) whether the kitchen floor suffers from "waxy yellow buildup."

They hear sirens and Mary comments, "What are all these sirens? You'd think somebody got murdered."

Enter Loretta (Mary Kay Place), a young housewife and would-be country music star. She's out of breath. Guess what? she gasps.

"There was a mass murder on the next block?" the kid sister jokes.

Loretta is visibly disappointed: "Somebody told you."

Yes, there was a mass murder on the next block — a family of five, plus two goats and eight chickens.

Muses Mary: "What kind of madman would shoot two goats and eight chickens — and the people, the people, of course?" Enter a reporter interviewing families in the neighborhood. He can't believe his "luck" in running into the mass murder story, having originally been assigned to ask folks about an exhibitionist who'd been seen flashing about the city of Fernwood.

Amid all this is a variety of sub-plots. The second episode is equally lively. More about Norman Lear and the continuing saga of "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" tomorrow.

Opinion And Comment

'A walking target'

In the wake of the second attempt on his life, President Ford has again made the ritual statement that he will not be intimidated and intends to go on making the kind of personal appearances that place him in jeopardy. We believe he should reconsider.

Mr. Ford's personal courage is not in question. It is not so much the risk to himself that he ought to weigh, as the risk of subjecting the nation once more to the harrowing trauma of a presidential assassination. In our judgment the President should curtail his campaign activities, at least for the time being.

One important factor in reaching this conclusion is what has been called the "contagion" theory. Many social scientists feel that this applies to much deviant behavior. One streaker will spawn a months-long deluge of streakers across the country; one riot will spawn other riots. Likewise, one assassination attempt may give rise to others.

Psychiatrists have supported this view since Sara Jane Moore, only 17 days after the attack by Lynette Fromme, fired at President Ford in San Francisco. One of them is Dr. Lawrence Zelic Freedman of the University of Chicago, who was psychiatric consultant to the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence. He said he thinks "there's a contagion effect, a sort of emotional resonance," and added that in his view Mr. Ford should for a time reduce the number of public appearances he makes.

A San Diego State University political scientist, Prof. Iro K. Feieabend, touched on the same theme when asked to comment. "The idea of contagion," he said, "is broader than just assassination attempts. It usually goes to any act of violence. You have one hijacking and suddenly there's an epidemic." Another political scientist, Prof. Ted Gurr, who also worked with the commission on violence, put it trenchantly: "There's a lot of modeling behavior, or money-see, monkey-do."

Perhaps we belabor the point. We give it such emphasis because the danger is so great. The two episodes thus far involving Mr. Ford underscored the fact that the Secret Service is powerless to guarantee his security when he mingles with crowds or moves about in close proximity to them. A further point also is stressed by these events - the likelihood that other disturbed people with guns are out there. In refusing to curtail his appearances the President is, as Gurr observed, "in effect saying that he's going to be a walking target."

A WORD EDGEWISE.... By John P. Roche

Results carved in granite

The special Senate election in New Hampshire last week was extremely suggestive of things to come between now and the Presidential sweepstakes in Nov., 1976. Louis Wyman, the Republican defeated by 30,000 votes by liberal Democrat John Durkin, is one of the sole surviving dinosaurs. In the 1950s, as state Attorney General, he developed into a two-bit Joe McCarthy, harassing the University for having "subversive" lecturers and generally protecting the innocent people of the Granite State from sinister forces. Indeed, there was a time when the combination of Senator Styles Bridges (a prince of yahoos), Wyman and the Manchester "Union Leader" (a paper that rivals "Pravda" for objectivity) could ignite quite a firestorm. All that now remains of this once formidable reactionary fortress is the "Union Leader" and Governor Meldrim Thomson, who recently made the funnies by attacking Gerry Ford as a liberal.

Wyman gave up his seat in the House of Representatives to run for the Senate and after his defeat in the rerun announced that "politically New Hampshire has seen the last of Lois Wyman." Although I rarely hold a grudge for more than 20 years, may I fervently pray that we have all seen the last of Louis Wyman. He was eminently expendable.

What did the election demonstrate? Well, if you believe Wyman's rhetoric, a vote for Durkin was a blow for the tyranny of trade unions, for pampering welfare loafers, for inflation, and for janitors. (Wyman kindly observed that Durkin was not fit to be a janitor - John took this a bit personally as his father had been a janitor.) Governor Thomson has not surfaced yet with his interpretation, but maybe he will give us another laugh by noting that Wyman lost because that liberal Ford supported him, driving masses of true rightwingers into the Durkin camp.

Well, enough fun - as you know, I am a good winner, but it shouldn't be overdone. The Senate election in my judgment indicated that, although Watergate is a dead issue, the Ford Administration has provided the Democrats with an even more powerful appeal: the economy and the lack of leadership. Durkin's practical triumph (however you counted the votes) over Wyman in 1974 was a Watergate freak - the odds were he wouldn't come close. This time he simply walked away; Wyman conceded at 9:30 p.m. With all respect to Governor Thomson and his rain dancers, the American people are not cheerfully waiting around for unemployment because they know it will raise the Dow-Jones.

Back in 1968 I suggested here that the odds favored Richard Nixon because there was a war on, and Republicans end wars. I also remarked that the other side of this proposition was that the populace associates the Republicans with depressions. In 1968 it seemed worth risking a depression to end a war, but in 1976 what will be the trade off? New Hampshire gives us a hint.

Take another issue: the Republican yowl about cutting back welfare and other public services. During prosperity this picks up some transitory charm, but there are 21 million Americans over age 65 and, far from being worshippers at the shrine of Arthur Burns and the incredible Alan Greenspan, they properly feel they have earned the right to medical and other public assistance programs. When told about the wonders of the free market, they may not say much - but do they vote! If memory serves, their level of participation is roughly twice that of the 18-30 group.

Increasingly over the past months I have sensed the growth of a new public attitude towards President Ford, and the New Hampshire results seem to verify it. Everyone likes Good Old Gerry, Mrs. Ford is sweet (I think the uproar about her remarks was silly: as the father of a daughter I'm sure I know what she was trying to say), and everything around the White House is hunky-dory - except that President Ford is vanishing like the Cheshire Cat. The American people don't want Good 'Ole Gerry in the Oval Office; they want President Gerald Ford.

A day in which to get your house in order. Check your files, correspondence, agreements. Keep your ultimate aims and goals in mind, and refuse to be rushed by anyone.

LEO

(June 24 to Aug. 23)

You may be attracted to an individual who seems aloof, indifferent. Making a gesture of friendship could prove an important move in changing the situation.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Don't let a moody or emotional person get you down. Maintain and promote your self-esteem and stress your innately optimistic side. It may not be easy but it will be necessary.

LIBRA

A great day! You can now outpoint, outsmart and outdo anyone. Profit by it! Occupational interests especially favored.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Some planetary restrictions now. If certain negotiations are pending, try to defer conclusion for 24 hours, when influences will be more propitious.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Keep an eye on the doings of a highly unpredictable companion. His (or her) unconventional actions could ultimately involve you - to your sorrow.

YOU BORN TODAY: The scales are your symbol; Venus, your planet - representing beauty and love. Any lack of harmony in your surroundings distresses you. You are notably lacking in aggressiveness and find it hard to make decisions since your need for weighing and balancing everything unhurriedly makes it impossible for you to take an immediate stand on any issue. This hesitancy is considered by many to be a sign of weakness on your part but, once you have made a decision, no power on earth can make you change your mind. This trait COULD prove exasperating to others at times - especially if your decision should prove unsound. Consider well! There are many fields in which you could excel, but notably in literature, the law, jurisprudence, painting and the theater.

Ohio Perspective

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Sen. Oakley C. Collins won't take a second job as Lawrence County school superintendent for at least two more months — despite an embattled new law effective next Thursday, allowing him to do so.

Collins, R-17 Ironton, and the county school board, agreed to hold off on the effective date, ostensibly to accommodate the outgoing superintendent, but possibly for other reasons as well. They said retiring Supt. Harvey Butcher had his contract extended until December to enhance his retirement benefits.

However, Lawrence County Prosecutor Lloyd Moore, a Democrat, said he thinks they held off because of an Ohio Supreme Court challenge he plans to file "if and when Oakley takes office as school superintendent."

Moore repeated constitutional objections were voiced by some lawmakers last summer when the legislature enacted the so-called "Oakley Collins" bill, permitting him to serve in two public positions at the same time.

The bill had wide bipartisan support from Collins' friends in the legislature where his service dates back to 1947. Gov. James A. Rhodes signed it into law July 3, giving it an Oct. 2 effective date.

However, Moore said "it doesn't matter to me that they passed an unconstitutional law."

He cited Article 2, Section 4 of the Ohio Constitution which says in part that no person holding "any lucrative office under the authority of this state, shall be eligible to, or have a seat in, the General Assembly..."

Moore noted that the document goes on to say that the prohibition does not apply to "township officers, justices of the peace, notaries public, or officers of the militia."

The bill enacted by the legislature states simply that employees of county school boards may also serve in the legislature.

"Oakley says this constitutional ban doesn't apply to him, but I can read English as well as the next fellow," said the prosecutor, who has held his office since 1954.

Moore indicated he has laid some other groundwork if it turns out that Collins signs on as superintendent. He said he found an old attorney general's opinion holding that a department head of a municipality was not eligible to serve in the legislature.

Collins, at times a controversial figure in state as well as local politics, maintains that holding both positions would not be a conflict of interest, as charged by others any more than lawmakers in various private professions.

He said he would forego his superintendent's pay (about $20,000 a year) while working in Columbus. State senators earn $17,500 annually.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Twice-married woman torn by grave invitations

DEAR ABBY: My sister, Jane, was widowed after 45 years of marriage to Joe Smith. When Joe died, she bought a double plot with a big single stone with "SMITH" across it. She put his name on one side of it, plus the date of his birth and date of his death. The other side was for her when her time came.

Well, she ups and marries Chester Lind, who was never married before. Chester has expressed his wish to be buried side by side with my sister, Jane, and he has two plots to accommodate them in his family gravesite.

My sister is no longer a Smith, so how can she be buried with Joe Smith in the Smith family plot if she wanted to?

CONFUSED
DEAR CONFUSED: It's up to your sister to make her wishes known soon. If she wants to be laid to rest beside her first husband, she should so advise her present husband. Her marker would then read, "JANE SMITH LIND". If she doesn't make her wishes known, my guess is that if she outlives Chester, she'll join the Smiths. If not, Chester will bury her with the Linds.

DEAR ABBY: I feel sorry for the Sunday school teacher who has a discipline problem with the pastor's 6-year-old son and doesn't know what to do. Being a pastor myself, I know that every Tom, Dick and Harry threaten to quit the church if they don't get their way.

I've heard everything from, "If my daughter doesn't get to play the organ," to, "if my grandfather doesn't get to preach his own funeral service, I am going to quit this church!"

When anyone tries to blackmail me in this manner, I simply get out my pen and note pad and ask them to put it in writing. And I hold them to it afterwards too!

No church needs members like those I have lost. If it weren't for the bad language, I'd tell them all to go to hell.

MISSOURI PASTOR
DEAR PASTOR: And if it weren't for your restraint, you'd be looking for a new pulpit.

DEAR ABBY: I am 22, but I look much younger. My husband is 30, but he looks older. (He's losing his hair fast.) The problem is that everybody thinks I am his daughter, and this irritates us. In fact, we almost hate to go anywhere where people don't know us because everybody makes that mistake.

Have you any suggestions on how I can look older without dressing like an old lady?

LOOKS LIKE A KID
DEAR LOOKS: The solution to your problem could be to get your husband to look YOUNGER. Has he thought of a hairpiece? That would help. In the meantime, enjoy looking "like a kid". Too soon will come the day when time, the subtle thief of youth, will change all that.

DEAR ABBY: Tell FLAT to cheer up. The slim, willowy look is in. Look at the fashion models.

At 14, I was flat, and still am at 35, but it doesn't bother me. I still have the body and muscle of a teenager, while most of my big-busted sisters are getting flabby and saggy.

American businesses go after petrodollars

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent
DUBAI, Union of Arab Emirates (AP) — Thousands of American industrialists, military advisers and arms salesmen storm ashore in the Persian Gulf each week in a business blitzkrieg to capture petrodollars.

Already 70,000 to 80,000 Americans live and work here in Dubai and five other oil-rich nations bordering the Gulf. Many are Vietnam veterans fresh from unemployment lines.

They fly the Shah of Iran's Boeing tankers, operate his helicopter school at Isfahan, teach infantry tactics to the Saudi Arabian national guard and show Bedouin camelers how to fly fighter jets. They create whole new industrial cities and American-style suburbs out of sandy nothingness, train the pilots, stewardesses and baggage handlers for Iraq airlines, and equip and staff entire hospitals and medical schools. Among other bizarre undertakings, like providing phosphorescent safety jackets for camels crossing Abu Dhabi's new four-lane expressway, they have finished building a hotel in Mecca, Saudi Arabia, by remote control TV cameras because only true Moslem believers could visit the construction site in Islam's holiest city.

By the end of the decade, Pentagon officials predict, 150,000 Americans will be in the Gulf carrying out billions of dollars worth of arms contracts and billions more in economic projects that already have resulted in a U.S. trade surplus in the area despite the oil price increase.

"What Vietnam was to the Sixties, the Gulf has become to the Seventies," says chopper jockey Tom Forbes of Jacksonville, Fla., a Vietnam veteran teaching Iranian cadets to fly the Shah's 700 new helicopters. "It's where it's all at. The big difference here is that nobody's shooting at you. And, for a change, Uncle Sam isn't footing the bill."

Jobs are plentiful for semiskilled hard hat or skilled white collar types.

Salaries for Americans range anywhere from $1,500 to $3,000 a month and in some cases housing and schooling allotments are made for families.

But prices are high. A small jar of peanut butter, for example, costs $5 in Iran and a coffee is $8 a pound in Kuwait.

George Roche, a welder from Gary, Ind., said he saved up 19 unemployment checks for a ticket to Tehran, Iran. "I filed 12 applications, had nine interviews and got nine job offers."

Mental health energy cuts made

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation has cut its consumption of its four major energy users for the three months ended June 30.

It said it curtailed its use of natural gas by 12.6 per cent over the same period last year while consumption of electricity was down 2.5 per cent, coal 7.9 per cent and fuel oil by 51.1 per cent.

The department said the consumption figures reflect energy used for 31 facilities in the state but not the central and district offices, except those located on institutional grounds.

Miss Wheelchair America named

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dixie Lee Etheridge, 21, of Greenville, Miss., was crowned Miss Wheelchair America 1976 Sunday night.

Miss Etheridge was selected from contestants representing 32 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico in the fourth annual pageant.

First runnerup was Mrs. Shirley R. Holmes, Carbondale, Ill., Miss Wheelchair Illinois.

Miss Wheelchair Kentucky, Wanda Rolfe, from Murray, was second runnerup followed by Janice M. Kelly of Kansas City, Mo., third runnerup and Mrs. Linda Casn of Dyer, Ind., fourth runnerup.

Italia Dito, Los Angeles, Calif., was voted Miss Congeniality. Christine Valasek of Ford City, Pa. received Miss Achievement honors.

Armstrong to retire as divisional chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Harry L. Armstrong of Logan will retire as chief of the Department of Natural Resources' oil and gas division Oct. 15 after 26 years as a public servant.

Armstrong, who turns 60 next month, has been chief of the division since March.

Several firms said they'd fly my family over, but I can't find an apartment here for under $1,000 a month with a sit down toilet." Roche plans to keep his shipyard job long enough to pay his return air fare.

The rental of a two-bedroom villa in Bahrain has tripled in price to $1,200 a month in the past year. The Tehran American School was launched in 1954 with 92 students. This fall it opens its doors to 3,000 and has plans to accommodate 5,000 students.

Congressional and other critics of U.S. arms sales in this highly volatile region fear the presence of thousands of Americans could trigger an incident that could involve the United States in a shooting war.

Industry's answer, like the Defense Department at most Washington hearings, is that the Gulf oilfields want American weapons and know-how and can afford it on an unprecedented scale that already is redeeming the U.S. recession-ridden economy. If spurned, the argument goes, they will shop elsewhere for their arms, in Britain or France, or even in the Soviet Union, losing the United States both a customer and a friend.

More than half the Americans now living in the heat and dust of the Gulf are advisers and technocrats directly involved with the $10 billion worth of U.S. arms peddled in the area since 1973, chiefly to Iran and Saudi Arabia.

Each week, sometimes three times a week, a chartered Boeing 707 leaves Fort Worth, Tex., for Iran bringing wives and children of the 1,600 Bell helicopter employees at Isfahan. Soon the fabled city of turquoise mosques, which already has a sizeable colony of Hughes electronics folk and Raytheon missile men, in addition to a Russian steel mill and a DuPont fibre plant, will be home for 1,400 Grumman aircraft employees and their families.

To house the burgeoning foreign colony, a satellite suburb is being built on the outskirts of Isfahan for 10,000 people. It is called Shahin Shahr, "City of Eagles."

It will be a typical American suburb with barbecue ovens on the lawn, motor bikes in the driveway and basketball hoops over the garage door.

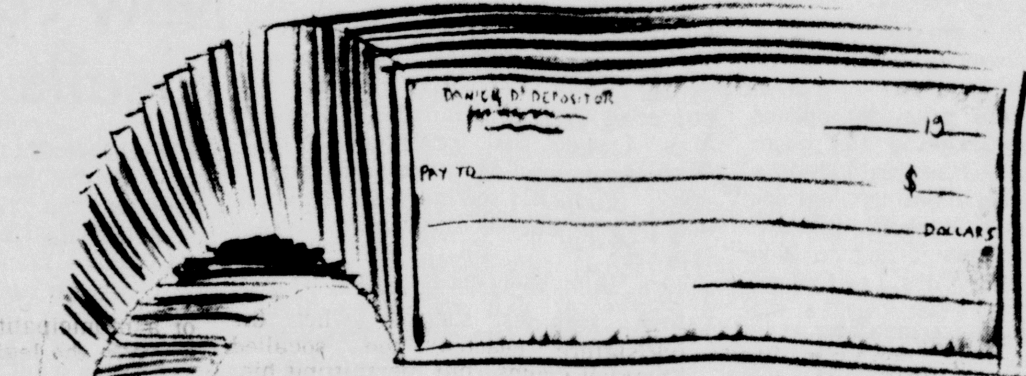

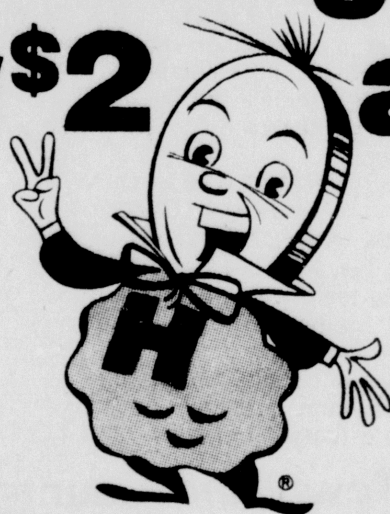

For 160 years, right up until independence was granted in 1971, British officers of the famed Trucial Oman Scouts kept the peace in the feuding emirates of the Persian Gulf with a camel cavalry and a couple of dusty squad cars. Now even the smallest, richest city-state, like Abu Dhabi with its Rapier missiles and Mirage jets, wants to be its own version of a superpower. Kuwait, with squadrons of both U.S. Skyhawks and French Mirages, is in the market for TOW antitank missiles and other sophisticated systems.

The Shah of Iran, budgeting in the billions for defense, is determined to carry out his self-appointed role of policeman of the Gulf with the most modern weapons available.

Saudia Arabia has embarked on a 143 billion, five-year development program that will require importing two million foreign workers.

"We're not mercenaries," insisted Robert Williams of Bedford, Tex., president of Bell International, on a tour of the Isfahan helicopter base. "We're here to make peace not war."

Alpha Circle WCTU organized

An open meeting of the Washington C.H., Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held in Fellowship Hall, South Side Church of Christ Friday.

Mrs. J.G. Jordan presided. The meeting was opened with singing of the hymn, "Onward Christian Women" accompanied by Mrs. Frank Creamer at the piano, who also gave the opening invocation.

The purpose of the meeting was to organize an Alpha Circle of the WCTU, involving younger women. Anyone interested may call Mrs. John Case 335-1113, or Mrs. Cloyce Copley 335-7667. The main goal in mind of the new Circle will be, "to teach the children and youth of our generation, that they in turn may teach the generations which are yet to come."

The guest speaker was Mrs. Robert Filbin of Columbus. She said that many tons of grain are used daily to manufacture of alcohol while many thousand die of starvation daily in the world. She also paid tribute to the WCTU which is 101 years old this year.

Following the meeting, refreshments of cookies and punch were served from a lace-covered table centered with an attractive arrangements of mums and daisies in a ceramic container, and a crystal punch bowl.

Plans for the October meeting will be announced later.

Pound Cake is a favorite

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Judging from the many recipes for Pound Cake that appear in "charity" cookbooks compiled by groups all over the country, the dessert must certainly be one of America's favorites. Recently when a new recipe for the cake that deviates from the standard rule came to our attention, we tried it in our test kitchen. It's good enough to pass along to you!

CHOCOLATE COCONUT POUND CAKE

1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vinegar
¼ cup milk
1 cup butter or margarine
1½ cups sugar
1¼ teaspoon vanilla

4 eggs
4-ounce package sweet cooking chocolate, chopped medium-fine
¼ cup raisins, chopped fine

Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Stir vinegar into milk; set aside. Cream butter and sugar with vanilla. Beat in eggs, one at a time, until thoroughly blended. Add flour mixture alternately with milk mixture, beating after each addition just until smooth. Stir in chocolate, coconut and raisins. Pour into a 9-inch angel cake pan that has been lined on the bottom with wax paper. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — about 1 hour and 15 minutes. Place cake in pan on a wire rack for 15 minutes, then remove from pan and finish cooling on rack.

Town and Country club installs officers

Mrs. Charles Herman was hostess for the Town and Country Garden Club's September meeting.

Mrs. Dwight Duff, president, opened the meeting by reading the poem "Even Steven." She extended a welcome to the 14 members and one guest, Mrs. Donald Meredith, present.

Reports of the recent tour to Ohio Village was given by Mrs. Lee Cleland and of the husband's party held at the 1776 Heritage Inn by Mrs. Duff.

Ideas for a bus trip sponsored by the Fayette County Garden clubs were discussed and ideas will be presented at the next President's Council meeting.

Mrs. Donald Meredith installed the following officers in an impressive service, and presented bud vases containing various colors of carnations, depicting each office, to the officers: Mrs. Dwight Duff, president; Mrs. Alvin Armintrout, vice president; Mrs. John Stimpert, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Robert Browning, news reporter.

Mrs. Duff conducted a contest when prizes were won by Mrs. Alvin Armintrout and Mrs. Lewis Thomson.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Dale Thornton on October 23.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Charles Duff in serving tempting refreshments.

English Fare has its points

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Despite the shafts of criticism hurled at it from so many quarters, I like English cooking. It may be more on the substantial than epicurean side, but most of it is delicious and some dishes are superb.

What can surpass an English roast joint of beef, brought to the table ringed by pan-browned potatoes and accompanied by Yorkshire pudding? Or what is better for lunch than a veal and ham pie served cold with crisp greens? Or that wonderful English Salmon chilled and dished up with mayonnaise and cucumber salad? And how about the crisp, crackling fish and chips, which are England's answer to the hot dog, for an evening snack?

At Christmas time, the English outdo themselves with their classic fruit puddings, rolled in cloth and plumped into a big boiler to cook for several hours. When it is finally brought to the table, the pudding is usually wreathed with holly and flaming with brandy.

One of the nicest English traditions in my opinion is their high tea which provides an excuse to glut yourself with such calorie-laden delights as Devon scone served with butter, raspberry jam and thick Devonshire cream, lemon cheese tarts and those tiny tea sandwiches filled with crisp cucumbers, tomato slices or slivers of chicken breast.

Another old English custom is the country breakfast, now usually limited to Sundays or holidays. It is not just the bacon and eggs that Americans go in for with such enthusiasm. These morning meals are usually served buffet style and feature such specialties as grilled kidneys, tiny browned sausages served with grilled tomatoes, grilled mushroom caps, smoked kippers and finnan haddie poached in milk, then laced with butter.

The English boil many of their beef, lamb and mutton dishes and to my mind one of their greatest achievements is boiled beef served with carrots and egg dumplings. Here is a recipe for the venerable dish.

15 carrots peeled
1 marrow bone
1 teaspoon crumbled, dried thyme

New cookbook recalls recipes

LONDON, Ohio (AP) — Twenty-eight-year-old Mona Heck's favorite recipe was the pride of brides back in 1780 and reads like this:

"To make Lemon Syllabubs: To a pint of cream put a pound of double refined sugar, the juice of seven lemons, grate the rinds of two lemons into a pint of white wine, and half a pint of sake (saki), then put them all into a deep pot, whisk them for half an hour, put it into glasses the night before you want it. It is better for standing two or three days, but it will keep a week if required."

Mrs. Heck, who did not "bother stirring unless a recipe specifically told me to," now experiments with pounds, pints and pinches in the best pioneer tradition.

The housewife and her husband, John, who learned cooking from his mother and grandmother, have whipped up a "Bicentennial Cookbook — Fabulous Foods of the Founding Fathers."

It contains lemon syllabubs and Heck's favorite, beef steak "pye."

Directions for it read: "Beat five or six rump steaks very well with a paste pin, and season them well with pepper and salt, lay a good puff paste round the dish, and put a little water in the bottom, then lay the steaks in, with a lump of butter upon every steak, and put on the lid, cut a little paste in what form you please, and lay it on."

The 30-year-old chemical fertilizer salesman, who both agree is the better cook, explains a paste pin is a rolling pin; puff paste would be puffy crust; and a lid also is a crust.

"You've just got to guess how much a lump of butter is or how long to bake the pie," he said. He recommends a very slow oven.

Of the 140 recipes in the book, Mrs. Heck estimates they've tried 15 to 20 per cent.

By checking out encyclopedias, the Hecks have verified that "allegar" means malt vinegar; "bram" is the foam which rises on top of fermenting beer and was used as a leaving agent; "pettitoes" are pigs' feet and a "tun dush" is a funnel.

Mrs. Heck began collecting the recipes as a hobby and turned her full attention to the bicentennial project after she resigned her teaching job to care for the couple's 10-month-old daughter, Sarah.

WASHINGTON REPORT

WILLIAM H. HARSHA Representative To Congress

Postmaster General Benjamin Bailer's request this week that Congress double the United States Postal Service's subsidy is the latest in a series of indications that American tax dollars are helping to support a financial failure.

In earlier action, the Postal Rate Commission recommended that the price of a first class stamp be increased from 10c to 13c sometime after Christmas. Air mail rates will remain at 13c an ounce for letters and 11c for cards.

The procedure was simple, but hardly painless. The Commission simply voted to make permanent current "temporary" prices, and the Postal Service's Board of Governors quickly agreed to the action. It will now be possible for the Postal Service to establish a new temporary rate 30 percent above the permanent level.

Since the U.S. Postal Service became a quasi-independent corporation, the closest it has come to meeting its "break-even" mandate was a $14 million deficit recorded in 1973.

Since then things have taken a drastic turn for the worse. The deficit rose to $438 million in fiscal 1974, and topped $850 million in the fiscal year just completed.

The many financial advantages enjoyed by the near monopolistic Postal Service have failed to make it a profitable operation. Despite well over a billion dollars in direct federal subsidies to the USPS last year, it still had to borrow an additional $500 million from the Federal Treasury to cover its daily operations. It had borrowed a like amount during the previous year.

How painfully easy it is to remember that in 1971, when the Postal Service was created, it cost just 6 cents to mail a letter — and that price had been in effect for eight years. The proposed new increase will be the third since the old Post Office Department was abolished and the Postal Service was formed.

Added to the waste and obsolescence in postal operations are the problems of inflation and increased energy costs. It has been estimated that every penny-a-gallon increase in fuel prices costs the Postal Service $3.5 million. Imagine the inflationary effect that deregulation of oil prices would have on the energy costs of postal operations alone!

Rising rates and competition from more efficient private mail companies helped cause a drop in mail volume last year — the first such decrease since the Depression.

The proposed rate increase will not be enough to enable the Postal Service to break even. Predictions are that first class stamps may cost 15c in 1977 or 1978.

The problems facing the Postal Service have prompted Congressional consideration of alternatives, including a complete abolishment of the Postal Service and a return to the Post Office Department under the control of Congress.

Another course of action is contained in legislation which proposes that those portions of the Private Express Statutes which confer the monopoly status on the Postal Service be repealed. The effect of such action would be to let free enterprise competition pick up that portion of what is now the Postal Service's monopoly business, and which the Postal Service cannot handle in accordance with the customers' desires and requirements.

Despite the best efforts and efficiency of thousands of postmasters, postal clerks, and letter carriers within the Postal Service, the corporation has simply not met its mandate for financial self-sufficiency.

The American public deserves more than a steady rise in postal rates and continued requests for more tax dollars in the form of federal subsidies. Whatever the expectations may have been independence for the Postal Service has thus far failed to produce financial solvency.

grand jury testimony Del Corso also said that based on reports and on pictures of the shooting scene the guardsmen were not surrounded by students or threatened when they opened fire, that none of the students was close enough to the soldiers to endanger their lives and there was no sniper fire before the shooting.

Regarding Rhodes, the Plain Dealer said the governor testified at the trial that he neither called nor talked to Agnew. However, the newspaper said Del Corso gave detailed testimony to the grand jury, telling how Rhodes initiated the call to Agnew and after completing his conversation with the vice president let Del Corso speak to him.

Del Corso said Agnew's first reaction was to question whether the shootings were racially motivated.

At the trial, Judge Don J. Young ruled that Del Corso's testimony on Feb. 26, 1974 could not be introduced because Del Corso, as a defendant, could not be forced to testify as an expert against his will.

The Plain Dealer said that in his grand jury testimony, the Plain Dealer said, Del Corso stated 16 times that the guardsmen were not justified in shooting or even aiming at the students in an antiwar rally on campus.

Farm Bureau holds annual dinner meet

Included among the 19 resolutions approved Saturday night by the Fayette County Farm Bureau was a national resolution calling for abolishment of the Environmental Protection Agency.

The presentation of resolutions and voting for local representatives were conducted following the annual dinner meeting held at the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds. The evening's guest speaker was WLW-radio personality James Francis Patrick O'Neill.

The local chapter of the farm bureau voted overwhelmingly to support the resolution calling for the abolishment of the EPA. The group has concluded that the costs of financing EPA projects has outweighed the advantages.

New trustees were elected in three townships. They were Ed McCoy of Wayne Township, Fred Gordon of Paint Township and Richard Carson of Perry Township.

Women members selected to serve at-large were Mrs. Charles Hiser and Mrs. Dale Ritenour. Jack Waddle was chosen to serve as youth director at-large.

Richard Woods and Wayne King were elected as delegates to the 1976 Farm Bureau convention. The alternates are Martin Smith and Lamar DeMent.

O'Neill, who will visit Washington C.H. again next Saturday as an announcer at the second annual Offsides football contest, addressed the group on the meaning of the American heritage.

After a humorous review of several historical events, he turned to a more serious discussion of the significance of the nation's 200th birthday.

He urged all Americans to make an effort to read about and visit the historical sites which played roles in the Revolutionary War.

He said it was important for each citizen to focus on the real "message of 1776." He added that the bicentennial offers an excellent opportunity for Americans to become increasingly aware of the principles which formed the foundation of the United States of America.

Farm bureau president Richard Carson continued the philosophy of paying homage to those who have advanced American institutions to their present status by recognizing past presidents of the Fayette County Farm Bureau.

Commended for their past service were Charles C. McCoy, who served as president from 1918 to 1919; W.O. Beatty, 1920-23; W.R. Everhart, 1924-26; W.E. Sollars, 1927-29; A.F. Ervin, 1930-48; Howard Hopkins, 1949-50; Preston Dray, 1951-53; Harry Hiser, 1954-46; Leland Dorn, 1957-59; Robert Pero, 1960-63; Marion L. Waddle, 1964-65; Thomas Mossbarger, 1966-68; Hugh Wilson, 1969-71; Richard Davidson, 1972-73; and Wayne Hidy, 1973-74.

Fire doused

A faulty heating unit on the roof of Pizza Hut, 409 S. Elm St., started a fire at 2 a.m. Monday.

Washington C.H. firefighters were able to subdue the blaze with carbon dioxide and estimated $50 damage. The restaurant is owned by A and D Management, according to firemen.

Halftime activities set

Offsides parade plans completed

Plans have been completed for a parade and halftime activities for the second annual Washington C.H. Offsides benefit football game Saturday, Oct. 4.

Community Education program director Hank Shaffer said the parade will assemble in the vicinity of the Washington C.H. Middle School auditorium, North and Temple streets. Shaffer said all units should assemble at 6 p.m. The parade will begin at 6:30 p.m. The parade will be North Street to Court; Court Street to Main Street; Main Street to Circle Avenue and to Gardner Park Stadium.

antique cars being included in the parade lineup.

During the parade, the Huntington Bank's hot air balloon will ascend from Gardner Park Stadium at 6:30 p.m. The game will be played at 8 p.m.

Pre-game activities include music, the National Anthem played by both high school bands and the ROTC color guard.

At halftime, the Washington Senior and Miami Trace high school marching bands will perform seven minutes each, to be followed by a drawing for prizes, and the crowning of a "Miss Offsides."

Serving on the parade and halftime committee were Karen Gerker, Mrs. Cinda Stinson, Mrs. Nancy Ward and Edwin M. Nestor.

Pipe bomb in gasoline storage tank

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Police and fire officials late Sunday found a pipe bomb planted in an underground gasoline storage tank at a Texaco station on the north side of Columbus. FBI agents said the bomb, which did not detonate, was apparently linked to a plot to extort $45 million from seven major oil companies.

Two men were arrested Saturday on charges of conspiracy to violate federal extortion laws in connection with threats to the Gulf Oil Co., headquartered in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Paul Douglas Methven, 32, of Virginia Beach, Va., and Larry Shaffer, 34, of Chicago, reportedly told the FBI they had planted a bomb inside a Columbus service station.

Police and fire officials cordoned off the intersection and evacuated a 300-foot area including 10 homes while the gas tanks were drained and filled with water, police said. Residents were permitted to return to their homes after the tanks were drained.

Members of the fire department's bomb squad were lowered into the tank and recovered the bomb. FBI agents said the device was identical to those removed from tanks at three service stations in Pittsburgh early Sunday.

It was the second time in three days that officials had hunted for a bomb at the Texaco station. Police Lt. Jack R. Cole said the FBI received a tip Thursday that a pipe bomb was inside the tanks. After a four-hour search by bomb squadmen with magnets, the investigation was called off and the station reopened.

See standoff in teacher strike

NORTH VERNON, Ind. (AP) — Today's classes for Jennings County high school and junior high school students were cancelled Sunday in what one striking teacher called a "Mexican standoff."

Elementary classes were scheduled to be taught by nonstriking teachers and substitutes.

Teacher Ann Sutton said the three-day strike would continue until a settlement is reached with the school board. The teachers are "still available around the clock to meet with the school board," she said.

Meanwhile, school officials said they weren't interested in talking with the teachers until the strike is ended.

Board approves names for campus buildings

WILMINGTON — The Southern State College board of trustees unanimously approved a slate of names for the college's north campus facilities at its regular monthly meeting. Board chairman Edwin Reffett of Brown County presided at the meeting held at the home of Dr. Lewis C. Miller, Southern State College president, in Wilmington.

The approved names for college buildings are:

— Revere Place, the president's family residence also housing the president's office and the business manager's office;

— Hancock Hall, offices of the north campus dean, the director of technical and adult education and the admissions staff;

— Franklin Learning Center, the north campus library, comprehensive learning center and the public information office;

— Jefferson Hall, the future site of many north campus administrative offices, classrooms, and technology laboratories;

— Patrick Henry Training Center, the truck driver education building; and

— Adams Storage Center, housing for the college's heavy equipment and machinery.

The building names had been suggested by college personnel.

Dr. Miller reported that meetings with Chatfield College representatives have been scheduled to discuss possibilities for developing informal cooperative agreements between Chatfield and Southern State College. Southern State presently has a cooperative arrangement with Wilmington College, under which north campus students attend liberal arts classes on the Wilmington campus. In return, Wilmington students may take certain technical education courses at Southern State College.

The college has submitted a request totaling $95,000 to the Ohio Board of Regents for equipment and renovation on the north campus. The funds will come from the $1 million allocation made available to Southern State College through House Bill No. 687. Dr. Miller said that approval is expected in time to cover expenditures made by Sept. 30.

In other action, the board approved the employment of 20 part-time and full-time faculty members for the north and south campuses. Board members plan to schedule a meeting with all faculty members of Southern State early in the fall quarter.

Present at the meeting were board members Dr. John Bryant, Clinton County; Richard Kimmert, Fayette County; Phillip McConn, Brown County; Hugh Rea, Fayette County; Francis Henderson, Adams County; Herman Rosset, Highland County; Ralph Phillips, Highland County; Reffett, Dr. Miller and Dr. Maurice C. Hartle, Southern State director of administrative services.

The appointment of a ninth Southern State College trustee to replace Dale Stokes of Wilmington will be announced soon. Stokes resigned from the board of trustees to assume chairmanship of the agriculture department at Southern State College.

Executions stir hassle in Spain

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Thousands of workers in Spain's northern Basque provinces began a 48-hour strike today to protest the execution of two Basque nationalists and three other terrorists convicted of killing policemen.

The death sentences, carried out at dawn Saturday despite appeals for mercy from leaders around the world, touched off violent demonstrations in Western Europe and prompted 12 nations to recall their ambassadors to Spain as a sign of displeasure with the regime of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The Spanish government in turn began recalling its envoys from European capitals.

Reaction in Spain spread immediately through the Basque provinces of Alava, Guipuzcoa and Vizcaya. An estimated 30,000 persons stopped work Saturday when they learned of the executions. On Sunday civil guardsmen opened fire on a crowd of 2,000 persons in Algorta, a guerrilla stronghold on the northern coast, as the crowd poured through the streets shouting "Murderers, we will avenge our dead!" Six persons were reported wounded and scores were arrested.

Riot police in Madrid dispersed 1,500 young demonstrators who attempted Sunday to turn a mass into a requiem service for the five. Several persons were detained, but there was no violence.

From Scandinavia to Greece, thousands demonstrated against the Franco regime and the 82-year-old dictator's refusal to commute the death sentences of the five as he had those of six other convicted police killers Friday night.

In the northern Portuguese city of Oporto, police and soldiers fired into the air Sunday night in an attempt to disperse 1,000 leftists who marched on the Spanish Consulate and burned its furniture in the street. They shouted "Franco murderer" and "Death to Fascism."

The Spanish Embassy in Lisbon was sacked and burned Saturday.

Sixty policemen were injured during a riot at the Spanish Consulate in Geneva. The Spanish Embassy in The Hague was heavily damaged by fire. A bomb broke windows at the Spanish ambassador's residence in Ankara, Turkey.

The European Economic Community condemned the executions. Swedish Premier Olof Palme called the Spanish leaders "satanic murderers."

Mexican President Luis Echeverria called for Spain's expulsion from the United Nations, and his government ordered all connections between Mexico and Spain broken.

The U.S. State Department refused to comment, but Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was scheduled to continue negotiations Tuesday with Spanish Foreign Minister Pedro Cortina Mauri for a new agreement.

Appropriation request OKd by commissioners

The approval of an additional appropriation for the prosecuting attorney's office was the only business on the agenda of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday morning.

The commissioners approved a request from James A. Kiger, county prosecuting attorney, for an additional $1,500 due to the added expenses from an increased case load.

The commissioners also announced that bids for insurance for the 90 vehicle county fleet would be accepted until 11 a.m. Nov. 3. Specifications may be obtained at the commissioners' office.

The Sugar Creek joint county ditch project was approved at a meeting of commissioners from Clark, Fayette and Madison counties Thursday. Bids will be accepted on the project in the near future.

Scheduled for Monday afternoon was the first hearing on the R.C. Hunt ditch project.

Strike in Tucson leaves bad taste

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Nearly 800 police officers and firefighters have ended a six-day strike, reporting back to work with a pay raise. But Mayor Lewis Murphy called the settlement "Tucson's darkest hour" and said it was achieved by the use of scare tactics.

After a four-hour debate behind closed doors Sunday night, the city council approved on a 4-3 vote the contract ratified by the Police-

Firemen's Association.

"We feel good about the settlement," said Larry Brooks, head of the Fraternal Order of Police. And firefighter Peter Jorgensen said, "I'm just real glad it's over and I'll be getting back to work."

Although no major fires or serious police problems were reported in this city of 400,000 during the strike, Murphy said before voting against the settlement: "Police and firemen, through fear, brought the people of Tucson to their knees. This is Tucson's darkest hour."

Councilor Barbara Weymann, who also voted against the settlement, said, "This is a situation where no one wins." Under the new contract, an immediate raise of 7.5 per cent was granted police officers ranked sergeant or higher, firefighters ranked captain or higher and civilian municipal workers in administrative posts.

Other employees received a 5 per cent increase. A cost-of-living increase of up to 8 per cent will be awarded next July, and police and firefighters will begin receiving uniform and equipment allowances and hazardous duty pay.

Rookie police officers had been earning $876 a month and rookie firefighters $834. Starting pay was $1,118 for police sergeants and $1,174 for fire captains.

The Police-Firemen's Association, which was formed Sept. 12 by the merger of the police and firefighters' unions, had asked for a 30 per cent pay hike and immediate contract negotiations.

Demand blacks be given share of building

ATLANTA (AP) — This city's black, first-term mayor has angered white politicians and delayed a major airport expansion project with his unyielding demand that black companies participate in the $400 million contract.

It's part of Mayor Maynard Jackson's demand that black-owned construction companies be included in government construction contracts. "I think the time has come to stop pussyfooting around," said Jackson,

37, first black mayor of this Southern capital city. "Either government ought to shut up talking a good game or government ought to do something about it."

To back up his demand on the airport

contract, Jackson says he is drafting an ordinance that will guarantee black businessmen a share of every city contract.

His approach appears to be more direct and forceful than that of other black mayors in major American cities.

Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley has pushed a program to make black firms aware of upcoming city contracts, and Detroit Mayor Coleman Young has insisted on a quota of minority employees for firms bidding on city work. Similar efforts have been made in Gary, Ind. by Richard Hatcher.

Jackson, however, moved swiftly and directly this year to reopen architectural and engineering contracts for the airport expansion and insisted that the contract holders recruit black-owned firms to do 20 to 25 per cent of the work.

After 11 weeks of negotiations, the existing contractor, Atlanta Airport Engineering Inc., recruited a black-owned New York firm to share in the engineering contract. And two architectural firms agreed to take in four black-owned firms on a joint venture basis.

"It's an idea whose time has come," Jackson said of the joint ventures. "It is the next logical step in the equal employment opportunity sphere."

He said that resistance to the idea comes from people who believe "rather accurately, that if this catches on and spreads nationally, blacks will achieve a level of economic power unparalleled in the history of the country.

"The irony of the resistance to the idea is that the resistance is often by people who criticize blacks for not being resourceful. Now, here's a chance for blacks not to get a giveaway."

A black voter majority and a strong relationship with a biracial city council make it possible for Jackson to make such a stubborn stand, said state Sen. Julian Bond, a Jackson supporter who briefly sought support for a presidential bid this year.

"Most black mayors do not have the same kind of good relationship with the city council that Jackson has," said Bond who is black. "Although they may want to do the same thing, political realities keep them from that. This along with the black political majority is the major reason for Jackson's strong position."

Jackson collected nearly 60 per cent of the votes two years ago to defeat incumbent Mayor Sam Massell. At that time blacks made up just slightly less than half the registered voters. Today, black voters comprise 51.4 per cent of the voters.

So far, Jackson has not taken a strong position on an annexation controversy, an issue that concerns the black political majority. While annexation of predominantly white suburban areas would increase the city's tax base, it also would dilute black voting strength.

Thrift institutions in trouble

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's thrift institutions — the savings banks and the savings and loan associations — again are worried that they are losing out in the competitive battle for the consumer's dollar.

Restricted by federal regulation to offering only 5.25 per cent on passbook savings and 7.75 per cent on six-year savings certificates, the thrifts find themselves no match for Uncle Sam's 8-plus per cent.

That's what the Treasury is offering on notes these days, and some of them are in denominations small enough to attract funds that otherwise would repose within the coffers of the thrift institutions.

The big commercial banks, say the thrifts, are in a much better position to survive, enough though the upper limit of interest rates they can offer is one-quarter point lower.

The commercial banks have other sources of income; they aren't dependent, as are the thrifts, on catching consumer savings. They derive funds and income from a broad variety of business services.

Unlike the thrifts, commercial banks aren't undermined when the money of small savers is withdrawn, attracted away by higher interest rates elsewhere. But withdrawals are devastating for the thrifts.

You might think then that the thrifts would find logical and fair the prediction by George McKinney, chief economist of Irving Trust, that federal officials soon will permit higher interest to be offered on consumer savings.

McKinney maintains that the small saver is entitled to a "reasonable" return on his savings. The present restrictions represent an inequality, an inequality that federal officials can quickly correct if they so choose.

McKinney feels certain that this will take place, if only because "things of interest to the nation generally get done." Pressure will be brought, he said. "Maybe Congress will have to act."

Well, the thrift institutions don't think it's a very good idea. They agree that if permitted to offer higher rates on savings they would attract more money. But at what cost?

Said Kenneth Thygeson, economist of the U.S. League of Savings Associations: "I just don't think the

S&Ls and mutual savings banks have the earnings capacity to pay substantially higher rates."

Thygeson points out that net income after taxes fell in 1974 to $1.482 billion from $1.896 billion a year earlier. "We did a survey, a summary, and found them down even more in the first half of 1975," he said.

The thrifts therefore seem to be caught in a vice. They can't compete unless interest rates drop. And they can't correct the situation by offering higher interest rates either, even if permitted by regulators.

Meanwhile, they fear disintermediation — a big word that means, simply, a movement of money toward higher rates. In July the savings and loans accumulated $3 billion in savings; in August, only $1.2 billion.

Water pinch hits Newark

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Water service was expected to be back to normal in Newark today, but the mayor ordered the community of 45,000 to continue conservation measures.

Mayor Richard Baker declared a state of emergency Sunday because of a water shortage caused by a main that ruptured early Saturday.

Baker said although one pump was back in operation, residents were still using more water than could be processed by the system.

Officials still had not determined what caused the break.

Neighboring Heath provided emergency service to the Licking County Memorial Hospital in Newark, but could only provide 1.5 million gallons of the city's 10 million gallon daily supply.

Tom Seaver sets sports broadcasts

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Seaver, right-handed pitching star of the New York Mets, is following a familiar path for athletes by going into television.

Seaver, who won his 22nd game as the season closed Sunday, will spend the off-season as a sports broadcaster for WCBS-TV, flagship station of the CBS television network. He begins work Oct. 11.

The station, which did not disclose Seaver's salary, said he would cover the World Series among other assignments. He will be seen only in the New York area.

Among other WCBS-TV sportscasters are Ron Swoboda, a former Met teammate of Seaver's and author and former pitcher Jim Bouton.

PANTHERS TURNED CRUSADERS — Freshman Jay Mossbarger, Tom Riley and Jeff Sagar, all June graduates of Miami Trace High School, are new additions to the 1975 football squad at Capital University. All three are attracting the attention of head coach Gene Slaughter during early fall practice sessions. Sagar is presently running with the second offensive unit at wing back and Mossbarger is still running from the split end position. Riley, however, has exchanged his number '11' for a higher numeral and has been moved to offensive guard following an early test at halfback.

County reserves destroy opponents

The Miami Trace and Washington C.H. reserves teams gave their opponents little time to forget Friday's night's varsity contests by outscoring the opposition 122-0 Saturday.

The Panther reserves jumped to a 34-0 halftime lead and finished the contest with sophomores and freshmen to score a 70-0 win over an outmanned Unioto squad.

The Blue Lions held a 40-0 lead at halftime against Hillsboro and held off for a 52-0 victory.

Shane Riley scored on runs of one yard and 11 yards and tossed a 14-yard touchdown pass to Mark Smithson to lead the Panthers offense.

Neil Spears, Bill Hanners, and Dean Farris each scored touchdowns and Dennis Combs crossed the goal line twice.

Jeff Elliott and Tom Anderson scored a pair of touchdowns in the blue Lions' win. Quarterback Mark Heiny and fullback Ted Mercer also hit paydirt on short runs for coach Jon Creamer.

The Blue Lions final score of the day came on a nine-yard pass from Kevin Bonecutter to Randy Aills.

Next week the Blue Lions travel to Unioto for a reserve contest.

Trace frosh drop contest

A 90-yard interception return with less than two minutes to play gave the Wilmington freshmen grid team an 8-0 win over Miami Trace Thursday.

The Panther freshmen were zeroing in on the end zone at the time of the game-winning touchdown.

The offensive work of backs Carl Riley and John St. Clair and Lineman Glen Cobb impressed the Trace coaches as well as the defensive work of Ronnie Dean and Doug Merritt.

The Panthers' next game is scheduled for Thursday against the Circleville freshmen at Miami Trace. Kickoff time is slated for 4:30 p.m.

Bud Grant happy in blasting Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bud Grant says his Minnesota Vikings are "old and getting younger."

The Vikings, 2-0, showed a solid combination of age and youth Sunday in a 42-10 National Football League victory over the Cleveland Browns.

"Experience is a big asset," Grant noted with an uncharacteristic grin lighting his face.

Bengals blank Saints; win 21-0

O.J., Bills rip Steelers, 30-21

By BRUCE LOWITT

AP Sports Writer

O.J. Simpson tied one of Jim Brown's myriad National Football League records — and the Buffalo Bills tied the Pittsburgh Steelers up in knots.

Simpson, who made a habit two years ago of piling up 200-plus-yard games en route to his 2,003-yard monster that shattered Jim Brown's single-season record of 1,863 yards, got his act together Sunday for the second straight week.

He turned the Steel Curtain defense into scrap iron, rambling for a mind-boggling 227 yards — 88 of them on a touchdown jaunt — for his fourth 200-yard game, matching a mark set by the phenomenal Brown.

And it gave him an even 400 yards in two games, a performance which — even this early in the 14-game season — has people buzzing about his possibly shattering the 2,000-yard mark again.

Simpson's stampeding through the Steelers' supposedly invincible line and Joe Ferguson's touchdown passes of seven yards to Reuben Gant and 28 yards to Bob Chandler led the Bills to a 30-21 victory over the defending Super Bowl champions.

In the rest of the NFL it was Dallas 37, St. Louis 31 in overtime; Los Angeles 23, San Francisco 14; Oakland 31, Baltimore 20; New York Jets 30, Kansas City 24; Washington 49, New York Giants 13; Miami 22, New England 14; Minnesota 42, Cleveland 10; Houston 33, San Diego 17; Cincinnati 21, New Orleans 0; Chicago 16, Philadelphia 13; and Detroit 17, Atlanta 14. Green Bay is at Denver tonight.

Simpson's big third-quarter run broke open the game, giving the Bills a 23-0 lead. They were bogged down in their own 12-yard line when he took a handoff on a third-and-one, swung to the outside and flitted down the right sideline.

Franco Harris bulled in twice from one yard out for two of the Steelers' belated touchdowns.

Cowboys 37, Cardinals 31

"It was the most exciting game I've ever been in," said Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach, whose three-yard scoring pass to Billy Joe Dupree with 7:53 gone in sudden-death overtime beat the Cards.

Middle linebacker Lee Roy Jordan intercepted St. Louis quarterback Jim Hart and returned it 38 yards to the Cardinal 37-yard line to set up the winning touchdown.

Hart pitched four touchdown passes for St. Louis, the last a 37-yarder to Mel Gray with 46 seconds to go to send the game into a fifth period.

Rams 23, 49ers 14

Tom Dempsey's 51-yard field goal, which matched a Los Angeles team distance record and, James Harris' first touchdown pass of the season — 22 yards to Lawrence McCutcheon — enabled the Rams to rally from a 14-3 halftime deficit and beat San Francisco.

Raiders 31, Colts 20

Cornberger Neal Colzie returned four Baltimore punts for 104 yards, three of them setting up scores, and ran 38 yards with a fourth-quarter interception that helped Oakland overhaul and stave off the upstart Colts.

Jets 30, Chiefs 24

John Riggins ran for 145 yards and two touchdowns and Carl Garrett tacked on 135 yards and a score in the Jets' victory over Kansas City.

Redskins 49, Giants 13

A defensive line that sacked New York quarterbacks eight times and two touchdown strikes apiece by Billy Kilmer and Randy Johnson highlighted Washington's walloping of the Giants.

Dolphins 22, Patriots 14

Don Nottingham, promoted to the starting lineup after Larry Csonka defected to the World Football League, broke loose for 120 yards — all but 15 of them in the second half, to wake up the Dolphins, who spotted New England a 14-0 lead on a pair of Neil Graff touchdown passes.

touchdowns — 52 and five yards to

Vikings 42, Browns 10

Fran Tarkenton passed for two touchdowns — 29 yards to John Gilliam and 13 yards to Chuck Foreman — and ran two yards for another score in Minnesota's mauling of the Browns.

Oilers 33, Chargers 17

Defensive lineman Curley Culp scored his first pro touchdown in eight years, running 38 yards with a Jesse Freitas fumble on the opening play of the fourth quarter to lock up the Oilers' victory over San Diego. Running backs Ronnie Coleman and Don Hardeman each rushed for more than 100 yards and scored a touchdown for Houston.

Bengals 21, Saints 0

Ken Anderson passed for three Isaac Curtis and 14 yards to Charley Joiner — in the Bengals' silencing of New Orleans. Anderson played three quarters and completed 17 of 22 passes for 203 yards.

Bears 15, Eagles 13

Rookie running back Walter Payton seemed to have killed a Chicago threat when he was nailed with a clipping penalty and then a personal foul against the Eagles. But he shrugged it off, caught three passes for 27 yards and rushed for 23 to set up Bob Thomas' game-winning 26-yard field goal with eight seconds left.

Lions 17, Falcons 14

Detroit converted fourth-down gambles on two touchdown drives and tripped the Falcons on Altie Taylor's one-yard plunge with barely a minute to play.

"I just had that feeling," Lions' Coach Rick Forzano said of his fourth-down gambling. "I'm just built that way — to take chances."

Another Oklahoma in spotlight

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

The grumbling is starting over that powerhouse college team from Oklahoma. No, not the Oklahoma Sooners; would you believe the Oklahoma State Cowboys?

The Cowpokes, nee Oklahoma Aggies, have played second fiddle to the University of Oklahoma on the football field for so long — they trail the intrastate series 53-10-6 — that it's headline-making news when they steal the spotlight from the mighty Sooners ... as they did over the weekend.

While No. 1-ranked Oklahoma was having its hands full in a hard-earned 20-17 triumph over Miami of Florida, 17th-ranked Oklahoma State also ran its record to 3-0 by ripping North Texas State 61-7.

Hayden Fry, like most coaches, wasn't used to being crushed by the Cowboys.

"They're a great football team," a bitter Fry said. "I've been coaching for 25 years and have never seen anything like that. I really don't want to comment on it. They rubbed it in. I guess that's okay if that's what you want to do."

What especially galled Fry was OSU's running off several plays in the closing seconds without taking time to huddle after throwing two sideline passes to stop the clock. Freshman Steve Stephens eventually scored on a one-yard plunge.

Meanwhile, second-ranked Ohio State posed a serious threat to Oklahoma's lead in this week's Associated Press ratings with a 32-7 victory over North Carolina as Archie Griffin rushed for 157 yards — his 24th consecutive regular-season 100-yard game — and broke Rex Kern's school total offense record while fullback Pete Johnson scored all five touchdowns on short runs.

Punt returns of 47 and 68 yards by lanny Reece set up two touchdowns and helped third-ranked Southern California defeat Purdue 19-6. Fourth-ranked Nebraska swamped Texas Christian 56-14 as Terry Luck flipped three short touchdown passes.

Missouri, ranked fifth, rallied to beat Wisconsin 27-21 on a 66-yard pass play from Steve Pisarkiewicz to Henry Marshall, who earlier caught an 11-yard scoring toss from tailback Tony Gilbreath. Earl Campbell rushed for 18 yards and two touchdowns and Narty Atkins added 114 yards to lead No. 6 Texas over Texas Tech 42-18.

Dan Devine, Notre Dame's new coach, made his debut in South Bend and gave the home folks a hint that he might be almost as brilliant as Rockne, Leahy and Parseghian. With the seventh-ranked Fighting Irish trailing

Softball tourney

Perhaps the final Softball tournament of the season will be held this weekend at Eymann Park.

Entry fee for the double-elimination tourney is $50 and the drawing will be held Thursday at 7 p.m. in the park.

The Class 'B' tournament is sponsored by Warner's Sport Shop and jackets will be awarded to the winning team and the runners-up will receive individual trophies. Team trophies will be given to the top three finishers.

Interested teams should contact Jack Warner (335-4149) or Chester Estep (335-1985) for more information.

Punt, Pass, Kick competition winners advance to district

Six local boys earned the right to advance to district play in the National Punt, Pass and Kick Competition.

Ryan Higgins of Jeffersonville won the eight-year-old division. He was competing against seven youngsters and scored 105 points Sunday at Gardner Park Stadium. Higgins was followed by Richard Spears and Mike Wilson.

Joey Knisley scored 113 points to take the nine-year-old division. He was followed by Jeff Shaw and David Perrill.

Mark Bentley's 151 points gave him first place in front of Bob Smith and Craig Jones in the 10-year-old division.

Jon Thomas scored 221 points to beat out Tom Clemens and Ron Ward in the 11-year-old age group.

Two brothers from Greenfield won the 12 and 13-year-old divisions. Steven and Scott Grooms totaled 212 and 255 points respectively.

Brian Dodds and Steve Kingery finished second and third in the 12-year old division while Greg Bentley and Jeff Lewis placed in the oldest age category.

Over 50 boys and for the first time two girls competed in this year's event sponsored by Carroll-Halliday Ford. The district competition will be held at Gardner Park in October.

Shutouts in Pony League grid openers

The Washington C.H. Pony League opened its season Saturday night at Gardner Park with two shutouts highlighting the action.

The Big Boys ran by the Jaycees 28-0 in the opening game of the evening. Bruce Carrol and Jack Persinger led the winners with two long scoring runs apiece. Carrol opened the scoring with a 50-yard run and followed with a 57-yard run. Persinger finished up the scoring with runs of 46 yards and 41 yards. Steve Grooms and Ronald Ward scored the Big Boys' two-point conversions.

John Thomas led the Dividends to a 32-0 victory over the Marksmen. He scored on runs of one and three yards and he tossed a 27-yard scoring pass to Jeff Hughes.

Mike Strahler and Gary Gilmore also scored touchdowns in the second game on an eight-yard run and a four-yard run respectively.

Next week's games will be played Sunday afternoon instead of Saturday night due to the annual Offsides Football Game.

Reds win, look to playoffs

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

The odds will be in favor of the Cincinnati Reds but tradition will be against them when they open the best-of-five National League playoffs at home Saturday against the Pittsburgh Pirates. They don't seem too concerned about the tradition angle.

Since the playoff system began in 1969, no NL team opening at home has won the series. This year, the first two games will at Cincinnati, on Saturday and Sunday, with the last three scheduled at Pittsburgh, Oct. 79.

"I can't say if there's a jinx," Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson said Sunday after the Reds had finished the regular season with a 7-6 victory over the Atlanta Braves and were established by Las Vegas oddsmakers as 3-2 favorites against the Pirates. "It's just crazy the way it's worked out. There couldn't be any other answer."

Weather, scores highlight golf

Ideal golfing days are getting few and far between with winter approaching, but sunny skies and mild temperatures highlighted Sunday's Washington Country Club Men's Team Scramble event.

Jim Vess, Harry Townsend, Ralph Tate and Sam Parrett found their day a little sunnier by finishing with a 66 and in first place for the team scramble.

Ten foursomes competed in the event. Next Sunday at the Country Club, the Men's Roundup—Team Best-Ball Event will be held.

Other team scores were:
67— Paul Johnson, Ed Vollette, Ralph Cook and Donald Crabtree; Charles Cummings, Hayward Johnson, Roger Osborne and David Ellis.

70 — Birch Rice, Carl Elberfeld, Paul Maughmer and Ernest Stanforth;

victory — tops in the league — as the Mets held off the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4; the Chicago Cubs outslugged the Montreal Expos 9-6; the San Francisco Giants downed the San Diego Padres and 20-game winner Randy Jones 5-3, and the Houston Astros defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-2.

In Cincinnati's final competitive tuneup for the playoffs, the Reds beat Atlanta on Cesar Geronimo's run-scoring single with two out in the ninth inning. It was their 33rd one-run victory of the season and the 45th time they had come from behind to win.

Cards 6, Pirates 2
Willie Randolph, playing his first game at third base, committed three of the Pittsburgh errors and second baseman Rennie Stennett and pitcher John Candelaria were charged with two miscues apiece.

Reggie Smith homered and drove in three St. Louis runs.

The Reds finished with 108 victories — the third highest total in NL history. Only the 1906 Chicago Cubs, with 116 victories, and the 1909 Pirates, with 110, did better.

They finished 20 games ahead of runner-up Los Angeles in the NL West, the largest margin in the majors since the 1906 Cubs won the pennant, also by 20 games.

And they set a National League record with 64 home victories, only one short of the major league mark of 65, held by the 1961 New York Yankees.

Mets 5, Phillies 4
Seaver, 22-9, the winningest pitcher in the National League, was knocked out by Philadelphia in the sixth, but Skip Lockwood preserved the Mets' victory with four perfect innings of relief. Cubs 9, Expos 6
Pitcher Rick Reuschel had three hits and knocked in two runs, and Manny Trillo and Andy Thornton each had two RBI for Chicago. Teammate Bill Madlock went hitless, but won the NL batting title with a .354 average.

Giants 5, Padres 3

EXPERIENCED HOME WANTS LARGE FAMILY TO LOVE

I have lots to offer the family who will take me and love me like my present owners have. My large, spacious rooms are what all home owners want, and ideal for large growing family.

I have 5 rooms and full bath upstairs; 4 rooms and bath on main floor, plus enclosed porch. A partial basement with gas forced air furnace. Storm doors and windows, and aluminum siding.

I know you will appreciate my extra large 2 or 3 car garage that can be used as workshop, so DAD can keep me in shape, and make things for the kids. Oh, yes, I also have a nice big yard.

The Cox's regretted to leave me, and I would have gone with them, but I don't want to leave this nice, quiet neighborhood, so close to everything. Bring the family to see me; I love kids.

Avoid Guesswork - See Physician

I'm always tired. I take all kinds of vitamins, but I'm always exhausted. My wife thinks I am anemic and that I should have injections of vitamin B. Do you think this would help?

Mr. L.T., Wisc.

No, I don't. Anemia is not a speculative condition. It is a very exact one that can be quickly determined by your physician — without guesswork.

A simple blood study can, in a matter of minutes, show the exact number of red blood cells that circulate in your bloodstream.

It can also show the amount of hemoglobin and the presence or absence of unusual cells.

There was a time, many years ago, when anemia was a homemade fancy diagnosis that almost showed "social status." It is no longer used as a medical term without very specific reasons.

There are many other conditions that may be responsible for your fatigue, such as emotional tension, low blood pressure, low blood sugar,

Before you start a program of vitamin B injections have a complete physical examination. Then, based on the findings, treatment can be started.

After the birth of my third child I noticed stretch marks on my abdomen. Can these be helped by silicone injections?

Mrs. R.R.B., Tenn.

Dear Mrs. B.: Most doctors believe that these stretch marks are considered "honor stripes."

I would be very hesitant to become involved with the use of silicone, or surgery, or abrasion techniques of the skin without absolute agreement of your doctor and a plastic surgeon.

Far too many people have been caught in the trap of "cosmetic authorities" who offer their special brand of magical treatment. Beware of the unusual.

Opening lead - four of spades.

Here is a remarkable hand played last year in the Grand Nationals by Piyush Vakil, Oakland, Calif., star. He made four hearts by playing the hand correctly — even though it seems that the contract should go down one with proper defense.

He started by ducking East's king of spades at trick one, then won the spade continuation with the ace.

Had Vakil fallen into the trap of leading a club or a trump at trick three, he would have gone down against perfectly normal defense. (Against a club lead, East would win dummy's queen with the ace, exit with a diamond, and later deny declarer a trump entry to dummy. Eventually, South would lose a spade trick to West to go down one. Against the king of hearts lead by South at trick three, East would play his seven and so prevent declarer from ever utilizing the club trick he could establish in dummy.)

Vakil avoided both traps by cashing the A-K of diamonds and playing a club at trick five. East won with the ace and returned a diamond, whereupon declarer ruffed and played a low trump to dummy's queen.

East took the ace but was stymied. A diamond return would allow declarer to discard his spade loser as he ruffed in dummy; a club return would permit South to discard a spade; and a trump return would make dummy's eight an entry and also allow South to discard his spade loser.

In effect, Vakil's method of play was designed to overcome the possibility of a 3-O trump division — the only division that could place the contract in jeopardy. He recognized this possibility early in the play, took the necessary steps to overcome it, and fully earned the vulnerable game he scored.

Television firm to pay damages

CINCINNATI (AP)—The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that Admiral Television Co. must pay $100,000 punitive plus another $50,000 lawyers fee to a Cincinnati woman whose television set caught fire and burned her in 1964.

Mrs. Zora Gillham won damages of $125,000 but the U.S. District Court in Cincinnati later revoked the punitive damages and lawyers fees.

The circuit court said the district court had no further jurisdiction once the case was decided by a jury.

People talking to houseplants

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — It's not uncommon to find people who talk to their houseplants on a regular basis, says John A. Wott, a Purdue University horticulture professor.

Wott said that during a recent meeting of 35 amateur Hoosier horticulturists, half the group admitted to communicating with their plants.

The truth or fiction of tales surrounding plants is one of the things horticulturists at Purdue are trying to determine.

Wott says favorable results gained from people who talk to their leafy charges is probably because those persons take more notice of their plants and provide better care.

Police check burglary at Middle School here

The Washington C.H. Middle School was burglarized sometime between Friday evening and Monday morning by someone who entered the school by breaking a window on the east side of the building in the courtyard.

Washington C.H. police explained once inside a window on the second floor by the auditorium was also broken and a key to the pencil vending machines was removed from a desk in the counselor's office. An undetermined amount of change was stolen from the machines and then the double doors leading to the basement were pried open, breaking the doors and the windows within. Police additionally listed a cassette tape stolen and estimated damages to be $100.

Police also reported incidents of criminal mischief and larceny over the weekend along with a dog bite. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported a burglary and a dog bite.

Someone is believed to have entered the attic of the John Schreckengaust residence, 702 W. Market St., by way of the roof between 8 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. Saturday, knocking the plaster in

Lawmakers try to define what constitutes lobbying

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Congress grapples with proposals to impose more restrictions on lobbyists, the lawmakers are confronting the fundamental problem of defining what lobbying is.

Lobbying in Washington can involve ad hoc activist groups visiting the capital on a shoestring budget to talk with congressmen about issues such as busing, abortion or strip mining. Or it can mean the wellfinanced corps of professional persuaders, such as those deployed by the AFL-CIO and the National Association of Manufacturers.

The current lobbying law, dating back to 1946, fails to define either "lobbying" or "lobbyist." In addition, the law applies only to lobbying of the legislative branch and to persons employed for the "principal purpose" of lobbying.

The current law requires lobbyists to register with Congress and to file periodic reports about their total expenses. It does not ask for any information about who they lobbied or why.

Rep. Walter Flowers, D-Ala., chairman of a House judiciary subcommittee considering lobbying legislation, says he hopes his panel can come up with a new measure that "will hopefully be very easy to understand, very tough in enforceability and as comprehensive as we practically can make it."

At the same time, Flowers said he was concerned over possibly infringing on constitutional rights.

An American Civil Liberties Union spokesman testified that the pending bills could violate the First Amendment guarantee that "Congress shall make no law ... abridging ... the right of the people ... to petition the government for redress of grievances."

One measure introduced by Reps. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., and Thomas F. Railsback, R-Ill., with 153 cosponsors in the House, defines lobbying as "a communication or the solicitation or employment of another to make a communication with a federal officer or employee in order to influence the policymaking process..."

This would cover lobbying of the executive branch, a step recommended by the General Accounting Office, the auditing arm of Congress, on the grounds that the executive branch is no less susceptible than the legislative branch to the pressure of special interests.

The Kastenmeier-Railsback bill would require lobbyists to submit regular reports detailing their finances, persons contacted and the specific legislation or policy they sought to influence.

The Air Force Museum at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base features more than 100 aircraft and major missiles, and is considered to be the largest and most complete military museum in the world.

Ohio's deserters shunned clemency

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About one ninth of Ohio's known Vietnam era draft evaders and deserters have cleared their records or are still attempting to do so, an Ohio Selective Service official says.

About two thirds of the known personnel never even joined the clemency program, according to Lt. Michael Reynolds, staff operations officer.

Of the 333 draft evaders and deserters who came forward, 235 have dropped out of the program, Reynolds said.

Of the 98 who stayed with the work program, 75 are still working, 13 have moved to other states, jobs are being sought for four, and six have completed the work programs.

Out of 387 known draft evaders in Ohio, 16 reported to state draft headquarters, and all but one are now working at alternate service to clear the dropping of charges against them.

The 16th evader, who returned from Canada, returned there and stayed and his car has been referred to federal authorities.

Deserters completing alternate service have all charges against them dropped and their discharges are upgraded from dishonorable to neutral or clemency discharges which are neither honorable or dishonorable and carry no veterans' benefits. The cases of those who quit or are eliminated are referred to federal, civil or military authorities for possible further action, thus pass out of jurisdiction of the Ohio Selective Service System.

Reynolds says federal authorities are not expected to prosecute deserter cases, but that evaders are vulnerable to criminal prosecution if they do not complete alternate service.
